'Mons. Albert Tanguay ...'

'Once again, excuse us. Devotedly yours, Durocher-Rivard'

Rivard 'Clears' Guards

Dear Pen Pal ...

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard, who says he engineered his escape from Bordeaux Jail without "inside or outside" help, continued Thursday to evade a mammoth police manhunt centred on Montreal's underworld. As has been the case ever since the accused narcotics conspirator fled the north - end prison Tuesday night, police reported plenty of tips, but no hard leads.

"We've checked out every piece of information we've received without uncovering anything definite," said one officer.

As the manhunt continued turning up dead ends in Montreal, the day's main development came from Quebec City. There, to the laughter of the provincial legislature, Attorney General Claude Wagner disclosed Rivard and fellow-fugitive Andre Durocher had written Albert Tanguay, governor of Bordeaux Jail. The letter sought to "enlighten" Mr. Tanguay on circumstances surrounding the bizarre break.

The two - page letter, handwritten in French and with a graceful writing style, was dated Montreal. It arrived at Mr. Tanguay's prison office Thursday morning in an envelope postmarked Montreal, 10 p.m. EST Wednesday - some 20 hours after the fugitives completed their break.

It was written in Rivard's hand, said Mr. Wagner and was signed, in the same hand, "A. Durocher L. Rivard."

Second Senate Look

BANK HOPES RISING AGAIN

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett said a large bank with headquarters in Vancouver may become reality "at an earlier date than expected" as a result of the Senate's action Thursday.

He refused to say whether the provincial government would attempt to buy shares in this or any other chartered bank. Without trying to anticipate the findings of the Senate banking and commerce committee, which will take a second look at the B.C. bank bill, the premier said he expected construction of the headquarters in Vancouver to begin this year.

VICTORIA OFFICE

There would be "an important office" at the bank opened in Victoria at the same time as the headquarters, Mr. Bennett said. The premier wouldn't answer questions on whether the government intends to buy shares in the bank, if the charter is granted by Ottawa. But he reiterated that "the government has no intention at any time of directing the policies of any chartered bank."

'FIRST STEP'

"This is a first step," Mr. Bennett said when asked to comment on the Senate's move to send the B.C. bill back to committee.

"I'm very pleased that the Senate as a whole has taken a constructive attitude. I do not want to anticipate what recommendation the committee will make, but I hope the B.C. bill will very shortly find its way into the Commons for consideration with the two other bank bills."

Attorney-General Bonner said the announcement by federal Finance Minister Walter Gordon that there is to be legislation barring provincial investment in chartered banks removes any known roadblock to Senate approval of the B.C. bill.

LARGEST IN HISTORY

Even without government participation, he said the proposed Bank of B.C. would probably be capitalized at $100,000,000 with reserves of $200,000,000 making it "the largest start-up bank in Canadian history."

"Public interest in this bank has exceeded our fondest expectations of a year ago," said Mr. Bonner. "A lot of people are thoroughly fed up with attempts to prevent investment in B.C."

The "most important thing" about the Senate's action Thursday, he said, is that it once more sets B.C. upon the road to creating a leading centre of Canadian finance in Vancouver.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Referring the bill back to committee will give its sponsors, and Premier Bennett, another chance to appear before the committee.

The vote was 31 to 11 to refer the bill. Senator Jacques Flynn (PC-Quebec) said the bill should be reconsidered in the light of Finance Minister Gordon's announcement that no provincial government would be allowed to hold shares in a chartered bank, under proposed amendments to the federal Bank Act.

WAIT SUGGESTED

Senator A. J. Brooks, leader of the Conservative opposition, said it would be discriminatory to hold up this banking bill in the Senate while passing other bills.

Senator Gratian O'Leary (PC-Ontario) opposed the motion, suggesting the Senate first wait to see what the finance minister is going to do.

"The Rocky Mountains aren't going to collapse and the skies aren't going to fall on British Columbia if it doesn't get this bank right away," said Senator O'Leary.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 33-day strike of longshoremen in the South Atlantic District, last major holdout, was settled Thursday.

SPCA Says:

Farmers Face Charges

PENTICTON (CP) — Three Grand Forks farmers will be prosecuted if they abandon their pesticide-infected animals. Eric Berg, SPCA inspector and special constable, said here the society does not want to take such action but has no alternative.

Mr. Berg returned Thursday from an inspection trip at the ranches of Peter de Haan, Lee Hoodie and Rick deVries. He said the ranchers are desperate and plan to abandon their ranches and the animals if help is not forthcoming.

CAN'T SELL

The ranchers were ordered by the federal Food and Drug Administration not to sell milk or meat from their cattle and pigs after officials found a high level of pesticide in the animals.

Mr. Berg said federal assistance "must come immediately" to the ranchers.

In Grand Forks, Mr. Hoodie said he and the other farmers were aware of the possibility of prosecution.

"But we have no money to buy feed (for the cattle) so why stay here and watch the animals die?"

Pay Doctors Fat Salary MLA Urges

All B.C. doctors should be given standard salaries of about $25,000 a year, an NDP opposition member suggested in the legislature Thursday. William Hartley of Yale said it would be better to concentrate on preventive medicine rather than implement medicare schemes involving only "sickness insurance."

He suggested doctors should be well paid and given a month to six weeks holiday each year. In addition, they should have time off with pay for post-graduate work.

Correspondent Reports:

South Vietnamese Seek Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — A National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Saigon reported Thursday night the South Vietnamese leaders are seeking a negotiated settlement with Communist forces in the north.

In a news broadcast, Robert Gorahski said:

"A top-ranking member of Premier Quat's government says the administration (South Vietnamese) is basically in accord with Gen. de Gaulle's position that the only way out is to sit down at the conference table with Communist North Vietnamese."

"The government is encouraging further air strikes against the north as a prelude to negotiations. This will place the south in a better bargaining position."

Worst in 30 Years

Mob Storms U.S. Embassy

MOSCOW (UPI) — A mob of about 2,000 Asian, African and Russian students broke through barricades and massed Russian police and soldiers Thursday and attacked the U.S. embassy with rocks, ink bottles, and slingshots.

It was the most violent demonstration seen in Moscow in 30 years.

At least five policemen were injured and scores of demonstrators were seen with blood streaming down their faces during the hand-to-hand fighting that raged in front of the embassy.

Less than an hour after police and soldiers had succeeded finally in driving off the screaming demonstrators, U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler called on Foreign Minister Gromyko to complain that the "protection afforded by Soviet authorities was grossly inadequate." But Kohler also praised the "valiant" efforts of unarmed Russian police and soldiers to fight off the howling demonstrators.

Shouting Match

Dorion Short-Circuits Hot-Tempered Lawyers

OTTAWA (CP) — Two lawyers erupted in a shouting match which stalled the Dorion inquiry briefly Thursday. A third lawyer was sternly dismissed from the witness box by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion.

Raymond Daoust, lawyer for escaped narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard, and Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservative party, had to be out-shouted by the judge before order was restored.

A few minutes later, Roland Blais, 30-year-old legal associate of Daoust, was cut short by Chief Justice Dorion who ordered him out of the witness box and accused Daoust's own counsel, Leo-Rene Maranda, of making a farce of his inquiry into allegations of attempted bribery and coercion by federal ministerial aides.

HAIR IN SOUP

The Daoust - Drouin bout arose when Mr. Drouin suggested the inquiry was being asked by Daoust at a late stage to hear new evidence "like a hair in the soup."

Daoust leaped from his chair at the counsel's table, shoved aside his own lawyer, Mr. Maranda, and furiously declared he wouldn't stand for any insinuations against him.

With both men shouting at once, Chief Justice Dorion overtopped their voices with an announcement.

Split Over Viet Nam Menace to Majority

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson Thursday night survived an opposition challenge on defence policy but immediately faced a revolt by his own Labor party's leftists against U.S. bombings in Viet Nam.

A Conservative and Liberal attempt to force a censure motion on defence was beaten down in the House of Commons by five votes.

The debate over, 45 Labor members signed a motion conflicting directly with Wilson's reported support for American policy on Viet Nam.

The motion demanded a public declaration that the British government renounce support for U.S. policy "in view of the recent extensions of the war by the United States in North Viet Nam and of the U.S. declaration that these new hostilities are no longer by way of retaliation."

The motion is unlikely to come to Commons debate. Its main significance is an expression of the strains inside Wilson's wafer-thin Commons majority.

Wilson's view, according to aides, is that the necessity for preserving the Anglo-American alliance must be paramount in his attitude toward Viet Nam policy, and that negotiations would be meaningless unless the Viet Cong called a halt to guerrilla activity.

Rat Catcher Not Pied Piper

HAMELIN, Germany (UPI) — Hamelin has hired its first rat catcher since the legendary Pied Piper.

"Our rat catcher will not use a pipe," a police official said. A favorite fairy tale tells of the medieval rat catcher who, when refused payment for ridding Hamelin of its rat plague, lured the town's children away with his pipe.

"Our rat catcher uses chemical poisons," the police official said. "And please understand we do not have a rat plague like the story of old. We have no more and no less rats than any other city of our size."

He said a Hamburg firm signed an agreement to send six or seven specialists to Hamelin for a three-month killing campaign.

Tory Rift Widens On Policy Matters

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservative party appears headed towards another crisis over policy differences between Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Quebec leader Leon Balcer.

Mr. Diefenbaker has indicated within the caucus, sources say, that the party should take a strong and prolonged stand against the government's proposed formula to permit provinces to take over certain well-established, shared-cost programs.

It is understood that Mr. Balcer, who has threatened before to quit the party over policy differences, is interpreting the recent caucus discussions as an ultimatum—either support Mr. Diefenbaker on the issue or get out.

The party has been meeting in caucus every morning this week and is to hold another session today.

The opting-out legislation is scheduled for debate in the Commons in the present session after the Canada Pension Plan bill is approved.

Sources say the anti-formula position has been enunciated in a paper prepared by Erik Nielsen, member for the Yukon Territory. The paper apparently advocates strong opposition to the formula and to the proposed formula for an amending procedure to the British North America Act, not expected to be debated until this fall at least.

Informants say there were no ultimatums to the Quebec wing, but that Mr. Balcer and others are interpreting it as such.

Arms Sales Renewed

PARIS (UPI)—France has quietly resumed arms sales to Arab countries after 10 years, French government sources said Thursday.

They stressed that France would continue its long-term program of providing a large part of Israel's arms.

PARIS (UPI)—Rebelling Kurds tribesmen have set up the independent state of Kurdistan in northeast Iraq and are preparing for attacks by Iraqi government forces in the spring, a spokesman said Thursday.

The 2,000,000 Kurds, under the leadership of Mustafa el Barzani, have been demanding autonomy and struggling with central government troops for four years.

Imet Sherif Vanly, personal representative for Barzani, said a cease-fire has been broken, and charged the central government at Baghdad with stalling on holding negotiations for Kurdish self-rule.

The rebels have set up their own state, Vanly said, with independent judicial, customs, fiscal and military organizations.

MORE ASSAULTS
When the weather improves enough to allow stepped-up military operations, the Kurds expect intensified government assaults against the independence movement, he said.

Vanly charged that government troops had attacked Kurd installations with artillery, airplanes and tanks in the past few months in violation of the cease-fire.

"We have vainly awaited negotiations with the Baghdad government to establish Kurdish autonomy," he said, "but nothing has been done."

The Baghdad government considers that the Kurdish problem was solved with the conclusion of a cease-fire, while we consider the real negotiations still must take place."

Tough Guy Gone Gentle

If Rivard Is Scared He's Hiding It Well

By DAVE STOCKMAN

MONTREAL (CP)—If Lucien Rivard is running scared, nobody is likely to know it.

In his astounding escape Tuesday from Bordeaux Jail and since he has shown traits which his acquaintances did not normally associate with him — kindness and consideration. He was generally known as a "tough" customer.

COCK-OF-THE-WALK

Montreal police consider he has been the cock-of-the-walk in the Montreal underworld for some time, but how he got there was a matter of surprise.

APPEARS CHANGED

As he made good his escape, Rivard appeared to be a changed character.

When he and escape-companion Andre Durcher commandeered a car from a passing motorist, Rivard gave the driver $2 for taxi fare home and then called him to tell him where the car had been abandoned.

GO EASY ON GUARDS

Later he sent a letter, postmarked Montreal, to Bordeaux Governor Albert Tanguay asking him to go easy on the guards because none aided in the escape—"we did not ask their assistance because we had no confidence in them."

His letter contained touches of humor, an apology for the trouble he was causing, a declaration of innocence and a statement if he was lucky he would be far away by the time the letter reached the governor.

KINGPIN CONSPIRATOR

None of his humor brushed off on the files Montreal police have on the 49-year-old Rivard—or on the U.S. federal grand jury indictment accusing him of being a kingpin conspirator in a multi-million-dollar narcotics smuggling racket.

U.S. law enforcement agencies say he prospered on the trafficking of narcotics in a drug career they believe goes back to the 1940s.

'LEGITIMATE' OPERATOR

By his own description, he was a resort operator with interests in a number of other "legitimate" enterprises. In the role of a sound businessman he could be absolutely convincing.

A huge narcotics seizure made last year at the U.S.-Mexico border spelled trouble for Rivard. The arrested man, another Montrealese, blew the whistle on Rivard as the mastermind of a narcotics smuggling conspiracy.

Rivard was arrested in Montreal at the request of American authorities acting on an indictment dated last May 17 which alleged Rivard from time to time "would acquire and make arrangements to acquire heroin at various places outside the U.S., including Canada and Mexico."

Then, while Rivard was fighting efforts to have him extradited, the roof fell in.

Opposition charges were made in Parliament a bribe was offered to expedite Rivard's release on bail—bail was never granted—and the allegations led to the setting up of the now-famous Dorion inquiry.

'I AM INNOCENT'

In his letter to the Bordeaux Jail governor, Rivard denied the charges against him in Texas—"... I am innocent."

There was testimony at Rivard's bitterly fought extradition hearings in Switzerland and other countries—one of the reasons bail was opposed so strenuously.

He is known to have good contacts in Mexico. For a time he was a hotel operator in Cuba but was tossed out with the other North American casino operators when Castro came to power.

His escape came while the appeal court was still considering a second application for his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Quake Rocks Isle of Jersey

ST. HEIJER, Isle of Jersey (UPI)—A 4.9-second earthquake struck this English Channel island Thursday, badly damaging a pier and rattling homes and office buildings.

Seconds after the quake stopped, a 30-foot section of a granite pier collapsed into the sea, carrying away a 20-foot unmanned lighthouse. No injuries were reported.

Worth Consideration

EVEN THOUGH Prime Minister Pearson's views on the need for revamping the North Atlantic Treaty Organization came as a complete surprise to his own colleagues and NATO officials alike, they are worthy of consideration.

In a speech before the Ottawa Canadian Club last month Mr. Pearson suggested that the time had come for the NATO powers to give serious thought to revising the present defence arrangements so that the European treaty partners would be responsible for the security of one side of the Atlantic and North America the other, with interlocking co-operative arrangements for mutual assistance against attacks.

The Canadian prime minister's plan should have great appeal for the European treaty partners, especially Britain and France whose generals and admirals have long suffered disquieted nemes from being employed as little more than junior administrative aides by the myriad U.S. senior officers who fill every important command post in NATO military headquarters.

Indeed, a good many qualified observers are of the firm opinion that it is this situation alone which has caused General de Gaulle to adopt his present attitude of coolness toward the whole NATO pattern of Western defence.

If Mr. Pearson's proposals were followed, this problem would largely disappear. Britain and France could then be left to fight it out who was to be supreme commander of what in their own regions of responsibility, and egos would once again be free to blossom and honors be regained.

Mr. Pearson also called for a re-examination of the principles upon which the alliance was founded 16 years ago, with more stress to be laid upon the non-military aspects of the NATO coalition.

In this area it is interesting to note that two of the six major articles making up the original treaty specifically relate to the strengthening of democratic institutions and the elimination of conflict in international economic policies.

Mr. Pearson obviously believes that these parts of the treaty have been ignored by the Atlantic partners for too long. And in this thought he may well be right, for the declared enemies of the West have long proclaimed their intention of waging economic war upon us.

Certainly the need for some major revision of NATO policy cannot be denied. Mr. Pearson is to be congratulated for publicly submitting two substantial suggestions toward that end.

Helping Hydro

A NEW AND LESS antagonistic attitude seems to be developing in regard to the operation of British Columbia's metropolitan bus systems. Not that the wound of the recent fare increases will heal quickly for those most seriously afflicted by them, nor that the government is being let completely off the political hook for its disavowal of responsibility in this connection. But a more co-operative spirit is in evidence.

Premier Bennett, it will be recalled, suggested in the legislature the other day that there should be business-like discussions between the councils of Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria and B.C. Hydro on the future of the transit operations. It might be, he said, that the power authority should continue to run the buses; probably they would be better run by the municipalities; the systems should be subsidized by the local taxpayers but if Hydro were to subsidize them also "to a certain extent," he would not object.

The premier also suggested that there were "thousands of ways" of promoting more bus traffic and thus helping the systems to meet their costs.

Subsequently Mayor Rathle of Vancouver, who with Victoria's Mayor Wilson is co-chairman of the municipalities' transit committee, has come out in favor of the metropolitan areas adopting this helpful approach. Two suggested ways of bettering the service are the provision of more shelters for bus passengers and the clearing of main thoroughfares of parked cars, but Mayor Rathle thinks municipal co-operation should go far beyond considering ideas such as these. Cogently, he warns that the alternative may be the handing over of the transit operations to the local authorities on expiry of the franchisees with problems more serious than exist now.

Certainly there would be no sense in regarding Hydro as an enemy of some sort. And while clinging to the principle that the power commission or the provincial government has a responsibility in the field of urban public transportation—a principle surely admitted by the premier in his reference to subsidy—it would be to the municipalities' immediate and long-term benefit to encourage bus travel by every reasonable means at their command.

Rare Oratory

THE GIFT OF ELOQUENCE is often hard to come by. No doubt there are born orators. But even Churchill had to work at it; painstakingly writing and rehearsing for effect. It's said that Franklin Roosevelt suffered to the point of exhaustion in his composition. Leonard W. Brockington, actually born in Wales, is considered one of the finest orators in Canada, but his eloquence, too, derives from laborious preparation. As far as British Columbia's history is concerned, Sir Richard McBride and Senator William Templeman were outstanding in their day. In Sir Richard's case the flow of language was spontaneous. It was the boast of his friends that he made a few notes on his starched cuff—just a key word or two—and went on from there.

However it is achieved, eloquence is rare. But when it is encountered it is a true delight. Commissioner Edgar Grinsted of the Salvation Army when he spoke in Victoria, to an audience of business and professional people on March 1 impressed them as one of the finest orators in their experience.

His was a simple enough message: a promise of continuing good deeds and goodwill for the tormented; a pledge of fidelity to the needs of mankind, irrespective of "color, class or creed."

But the message was couched in superlative language. Nor was there a wasted phrase or a redundant word.

Commissioner Grinsted is the Salvation Army's senior officer in Canada. His territory includes Bermuda. The impression he created here, after a hurried trip across Canada, augurs well for the future of his organization and its work. The man radiates enthusiasm. And it is probably no fancy that this one-time fighter pilot would seem to promise an energetic and gallant approach to the problems which confront the Army.

"I forgot to tell you, dear—a man from the new town development scheme called and made us a marvellous offer for the farm."

The Biculturalism Report

Few Practical Suggestions Made

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

NO DOUBT many British Columbians have been puzzled by the first report of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism.

Published about a week ago it warns us that Canada is on the verge of a break-up unless something drastic is done at once. Then it calmly goes on to say that the recommendations for remedial action will be announced two years hence; presumably in 1967 when we are celebrating our nation's hundredth anniversary!

The situation may or may not be as serious as these ten excited commissioners are trying to make us believe. If it is, surely their first duty was to recommend steps to be taken forthwith to meet the danger.

One gets the impression that they have overstated their case. This is not surprising for they were investigating nebulous questions; they were chosen amidst alarms and threats; they do not represent all parts of the nation—for example there is no commissioner from our province; and they did not hold public hearings of the type usually conducted by a royal commission; instead of allowing anyone to be heard they issued invitations to a hand-picked group.

Furthermore both the government and the commission paid scant attention to the fact that there are many millions of Canadians who are neither French nor Anglo-Saxon extraction. Talk of "biculturalism" in Canada today is irrelevant.

Members in this third group now number almost as many as the French-Canadians, and Anglo-Saxon Canadians are themselves far less than 50 per cent of our population.

In this connection it is no surprise that nearly all of these non-French and non-Anglo-Saxon Canadians speak English rather than French; also most of them have their own cultural traditions of which they are extremely proud—just as proud as the two larger groups are of their cultures.

Actually I doubt whether dividing lines can be drawn between the various cultures in Canada. They become more interwoven steadily as the years pass.

go by and that is as it should be. In any event this third group of Canadians seems to be satisfied with the Canada of today and it is making a splendid contribution to our national life.

Naturally it is always possible to make improvements and I have no doubt that our constitution, our parliamentary procedure and our ways of living and of working together could be improved. But very few practical suggestions for such improvements have been made by the members of this commission or the persons finding so much fault with our setup.

The common refrain is that the English-speaking people of the nation must do something—or else! The first report levels most of its criticism at this 10 per cent majority. Evidently they are supposed to feel guilty and start repenting. Perhaps they would if more definite changes were asked.

From the start party politics has been deeply involved in connection with this question of biculturalism. This was one reason the commission was set up in the first place. It was trumpeted as a means of promoting unity in the country but many believe it has done just the opposite.

Parallel with its work have gone dominion-provincial conferences which have invariably stripped some power from the national government and built up the provinces. The prime minister advocates a policy of decentralization; yet no nation can continue strong and take its full place in the world without a strong central government.

As for British Columbia there is very little she can do to meet the complaints now made by the commission. I am sure the citizens of Victoria who gave Quebec municipal leaders such a warm and friendly reception a few months ago are not deserving of censure for failing to understand the people of that province.

Here was an example of the type of co-operation there can be. If the spirit then shown could be made to prevail across our land there would be no danger of Canada falling apart.

How much more constructive the commission would be if it were to recommend ways, such as those adopted for this municipal conference, to promote understanding and friendship in all parts of Canada.

Now that the commissioners are to have two more years with the problem they would be well advised to concentrate on practical suggestions of this type rather than building up points of friction.

Our nation is not going to disintegrate or become ten semi-autonomous quarrelling provinces or an alliance of small sovereign states. I believe there is too much common sense in the country to allow any of these eventualities to occur.

Campaign-Financing Barrier

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

ELECTION? This year? No good asking the MPs. You get wildly contradictory opinions, all hedged with qualifying ifs, buts and maybes.

Not much better, either, asking the party leaders. They are in even greater disagreement.

Prime Minister Pearson thinks Parliament will hold still for the balance of the year and on into 1966 but, as he has put it, can only "hope" and promise nothing.

He remains flexible.

If the Opposition digs in and makes a bitter fight of what's left of this session and the new session to come, and obstructively gives ground only inch by inch, then the prime minister has hinted pretty broadly he may be forced to fight it out in a national election.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, say his intimates, is counting on an early election, as his one last desperate chance.

to become the third Conservative since Confederation to come back, after defeat, for a second time as prime minister.

Time is running out on him at 60, and unless he can make his go-for-broke bid soon, the party's increasingly powerful rebels may have arranged by next October's annual meeting to retire him either voluntarily or by the force of their dissenting votes.

Nor is it much good to ask the "splinter party" leaders, T. C. Douglas of the New Democrats; Robert Thompson of the Socials; or Real Coussotte of the Creditists.

All publicly have served notice on the prime minister to "clean house—or else."

And when the prime minister, as good as told them to mind their own business, reminding them it was his house and he would clean it only when he, and not they, thought a "cleaning" was required, Mr. Thompson barked quietly away from his ultimatum.

It would mean nothing, in terms of victory or defeat in Parliament, for Mr. Douglas and his New Dems to vote against the government in showdowns of confidence.

For no combination of even three of the four Opposition groups has MPs enough to outman the government in a vote. This would require all four to close ranks and they're not much as a team.

So if you want a cold, calculated professional opinion on election probabilities, ask the political money-men.

It's a straight matter of cash.

Not exclusively of out-pocket campaign contributions, but the deductibility from corporation and even personal income taxation of funds kicked into the party pots.

Heard it all explained, not long ago, by one of the wheeler-dealers who picks up always a hefty hunk of any campaign tab. Like most corporate money-men, he plays it safe, anteing up for both Liberal and Conservatives, with 60 per cent of the "give" for the government and 40 per cent for the Opposition.

The Official Opposition, that is—for as things have always been and seem likely to continue—only the two big major parties can make it to federal power. So any cash given the "splinter" groups becomes strictly a goodness-of-heart gesture.

Almost all campaign contributions—certainly the sizeable ones—in the end go back to corporate giving.

And as the wheeler-dealer explains it:

"Contributions are deductible once every three or four years, and in extremely exceptional and most infrequent circumstances, perhaps two years in succession.

"But three elections in four years—and that's what it would be if they campaigned this year—not a chance.

"The department of national revenue would never stand still for the tax deductions on what then would amount to political contributions on almost an annual basis.

"Financially speaking, then, an election is out. Next year would be more than soon enough in the revenue department's thinking—that would be three elections in five years. But now, this year? Quit dreaming. You can't have an election without a campaign Santa Claus, and without tax deductions, Santa won't give."

Rock bottom cost for a national election is $20,000,000. Chief Electoral Commissioner Nelson Castonguay has estimated the price-tag for the federal treasury at $1 per vote, or $10,000,000. The two major parties put up the other $10,000,000—largely from tax-deductible contributions from corporate donors—and this doesn't take into account the sudden individual expenses which candidates themselves must tap out in "instant money," without much help from national campaign headquarters.

At more than $20,000,000 in four years, the price isn't right for it again this year.

In Britain

Shadow Boxing

By IVAN YATES
from London

ELECTION fever is rising again in Britain. Conservatives, at least, seem to feel that at any moment Mr. Harold Wilson may spring a fast one on them. When the prime minister was invited to give a non-party television broadcast, their suspicions were instantly aroused. Former Tory premier Sir Alec Douglas-Home went in person to Broadcasting House with his chief whip, Mr. William Whitelaw, and the chairman of the party, Mr. Edward Du Cann, and demanded the right to reply if Mr. Wilson's appearance was in any way controversial.

As it happens, it was not. It was a cleverly-angled appeal to both sides of industry and all sections of the population to scrap old, restrictive practices and meet the challenge of the future. Mr. Wilson was playing the statesman, and in doing so showed just how shrewd a politician he was. There was nothing controversial for his opponents to seize on; yet he had made a telling appeal for support from non-party people in the middle of the political spectrum, just the people whose backing he needs if in the future he is to increase his massive majority.

Warmed by his success, the prime minister has let it be known that he would like to make further excursions of the same kind. He knows that the Conservatives will insist in future on having time to reply whether he is "controversial" or not, for they realize, as he must too, that in a pre-election period every appearance on "the box" counts. But he also knows that, as prime minister, he has the edge over Sir Alec when it comes to making a "national" appeal.

Behind all this shadow-boxing, it is almost impossible to assess the motives and secret desires of the two parties. But one thing is certain: Mr. Wilson and his colleagues enjoy being in office. You have only to watch them to realize this. They are not going to jeopardize this prospect unnecessarily.

Moreover, the longer they stay in office, the more they become associated with power and responsibility in the electors' minds. On balance, then, it seems fair to assume that unless they are driven to go to the country they will soldier on, however uncomfortably, with their majority of four.

But will they be driven from office? The Conservatives are in a bit of a dilemma. There is no advantage to them to precipitate an election they cannot win. And even if the government's unpopularity were to grow, the electors might still resent being asked to give another verdict so soon. Moreover, it will be some months before the Conservatives' new policies are agreed and ready for unveiling. Until then, they are in danger of giving the impression of being willing to wound but afraid to strike.

All the more so, because the evidence is that, man for man, Sir Alec is no match for Mr. Wilson. And although Sir Alec has announced the new procedure for the election of future Conservative leaders, he has made it plain that he himself does not intend to submit himself to it. Nor can it readily be invoked by any of his rivals, while there is a real possibility of an early election.

The converse, however, is also true. Mr. Wilson would dearly like to fight an election against Sir Alec. He has made crystal clear the contempt in which he holds his chief opponent. If, therefore, without himself precipitating an election, he could overthrow Sir Alec, he would feel that he had won the prize of his life.

And if that could be postponed until next year, so that he has the opportunity to set people thoroughly used to him as a national leader, that, from his point of view, would be ideal.

All these tactical considerations leave much room for manoeuvring, not least in Parliament. The prime minister has a heavy program of controversial legislation to get through the House, and this, after all, is the main stuff of politics. Mr. Wilson is not in politics for tactical reasons but to make changes in the economy and way of life of this country which will lead to greater efficiency and fairness. Once again, there is every advantage to be gained from his soldiering on until he has carried through his promised reforms in taxation, in the control of rents, in the use of land, in the establishment of a fair policy for managing the movement of wages, prices and profits and in the industrial relations.

It will be Sir Alec's task to deny him these. And in doing this, he will have the benefit of the very flexible parliamentary procedure, which gives endless room for manoeuvring, and of his control of the House of Lords—if he dares to use it.

The Establishments:

● Bilingual Ottawa is a very British place

By BON POULTON
(Eighth in a series)

In this day of new flags flying and young hearts yearning for a republic, it will do no harm to underline the kind of surgery required if Britain were to be cut from the Canadian body politic.

Talk of the Old Country is never heard now. There is more talk of "we" and "they." But we speak of British justice; and we have our Speakers and our Clerk of the House and Sergeant-at-Arms and Privy Counsellors.

The ties that bind are there in the BNA Act and in the names of places where we live, be it British Columbia, Alberta or Prince Edward Island.

Our very constituencies have a solid British ring: Kingston, Fort William, Cumberland, Dorchester, Peterborough, Norfolk, Kings, Regina, Peel, Prince and Grey-Rivers.

Talk of titles may furrow the official brow.

Many Honors

But the country is crowded with Commanders of the British Empire. Companions of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Fellows of the Royal Architectural Institute, the Royal College of Surgeons, the Royal Society of Canada, and Queen's Counsellors; not to mention "Masters" of this and "Licentiate" of that.

One who is not a director does not get a share in a Crown corporation unless it is issued in the name of Her Majesty or a minister of Her Majesty. You cannot become a Senator unless you are a "natural born or naturalized subject of the Queen."

In Ottawa, for all that the green towers of the Chateau Laurier look very Norman, the citizens march up Wellington and down Kent streets; and the Hill itself, is the habitat of a Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod and an assortment of aides-de-camp from "Royal" regiments.

Great Suspicion

As one inhabitant put it: "There's a great suspicion here of anyone who is too brilliant or energetic. Things move slowly. It's a very British place." Around all this rich and weighty symbolism gusts The Great Debate. It gusts with cries of "Hear, Hear" and "Oh, Oh" and constant references to Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition to "Those across the way."

So we come at last to the Commons chamber where, when members wish to express their approbation, they thump their desks flat-handed, making a sound like children building a clubhouse.

Even while speeches are being made there is no halt to the activity. Members twiddle pencils and swirl key chains. Page boys move, delivering messages.

Little Subtlety

The Commons, however, is not a place where subtlety is much in use, although once in a rare while a member may ask a loaded question to start an uproar which befuddles the uninitiated visitor.

The House is in action and the players reveal themselves. Tremblay looks implacable, Martin ameliorates, wearing an air of mild surprise that anyone should question. Favreau sputters and shifts to French for greater eloquence.

Hellyer looms, ramrod straight, says his piece and sits with disconcerting suddenness. Pickersgill simpers with delight at scoring a point. Pearson may blush. Gordon will seem to be presiding at a meeting of the board. Sharp will radiate sweet reasonableness.

Look of Regret

Across the way, Douglas will provoke with a look of regret at having had to bring the nasty matter up.

And Diefenbaker will brush aside his hecklers and rumble, as he did one day when the going was hot, "When a big game hunter goes after big game he doesn't allow himself to be diverted by rabbit tracks." It is plain, when all the speeches are said, that Parliament is the place where a blizzard of words can snow down to cover tracks of many kinds.

Longer Sessions

The sessions keep lengthening and MPs rarely get back to their bailiwicks. Perhaps Ottawa has become the place where politicians talk to newspapermen and newspapermen talk to politicians and nobody talks to the people.

Over in the East Block, the Prime Minister labors while "They" (the ever present They of Ottawa) say: "He really hasn't enough staff. You know, that's what the Pearson film really showed; that he had to spend time wondering whether his wife was at the hairdresser, and what not."

● House in action reveals the players

● Opposition MPs outweigh backbenchers

Yet, this man, as the leader of a party with a House majority, has more power than an American president. He can force his inner cabinet to a policy and watch while the rest of the cabinet falls in line and the back benchers vote as they see fit.

Disillusionment is thus the lot of a member of Parliament who rides Galahad's steed to Ottawa. One Liberal member told me, "I'm disgusted. I don't know why we're here."

He said, "Oh, I can intercede for some constituent. Here's a sergeant, for instance, who figures he is $400 short on his muster roll out pay. I can take it up and probably get something done. But when it comes to legislation, we vote the right way or sit on our hands."

The lot of the rebel is not a happy one. NDP deputy leader Douglas Fisher says, "It's often easier for me, or someone like me, to put a proposal to a cabinet minister and get something done than it is for a member of the minister's own party."

The squabbles of the last session have left other bruises. One man who has spent a life on Parliament Hill told me: "There's a greater degree of uncertainty than I have seen in 30 years in this town."

"The Tories can't be elected with Diefenbaker because of his Quebec attitude," he contended. "The public regards Pearson as a great External Affairs man. There's no confidence in the government, and the economy is moving ahead despite it."

There is also the matter of what Pearson calls "co-operative federalism" and Diefenbaker calls "Balkanization." The concentration on greater autonomy for the provinces has turned attention to provincial premiers and the influence they wield in Ottawa.

Quebec is an all-prevailing force. "But," a former civil servant told me, "Lesage has lost ground. He lost his chances for the leadership of the Liberal Party when he didn't speak out against the separatists soon enough."

"There is a feeling among the people who run the party that he was playing provincial politics too much. Lesage wants it, but he won't get it."

"As far as Bennett and Smallwood are concerned, they don't cut too much ice. I'd rate Roberts as the most influential here because he heads the richest province, but more because he has shown he knows that the art of politics is compromise."

Pressure Cooker

For all its plodding pace, Ottawa has the atmosphere of a pressure cooker in which things are stewing steadily. Quiet, but persistent, pressure comes from farm groups, retail merchants, Labor and the Church.

Now and then, the pressure bubbles to the surface: as when the Canadian Medical Association declares against medicare or aircraft manufacturers push for a greater cut of defense money even though government spending "accounted for $244,000,000 of their industry's $332,000,000 business in 1962." Lobbies also bare their strength against the pension plan. In January, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association fired a salvo. One not-unbiased hand on the trigger belonged to D. E. Kilgour, president of the Great West Life Assurance Co.

The Church is one of the unique pressure groups because it does not have to speak in order to be powerful. Politicians are just as afraid of its silence.

Witness the fact that it is still illegal to sell contraceptives or even give advice on birth control; the courts are still jammed with undefended divorce cases (1,000 before Toronto courts alone, in mid-January); and legalized abortions are still hamstrung.

Labor is far less powerful even though there are 1,468,000 workers in 51 national unions and 110 international unions in Canada.

Labor's greatest collective force comes from the Canadian Labor Congress which prefers to call its lobbying efforts "representations." They will protest against peep holes and TV cameras in postal sorting stations or defense plants closing down.

Bag Mixed

One CLC man said: "our pleas might carry weight where interests other than trade unionists are also involved. But on legislation which is purely a labor matter, the bag is a mixed one."

His tone was resigned when he added: "Organized labor is fighting for the pension plan against the insurance companies now. In matters of that kind we often get somewhere because the government is looking for support, anyway."

Douglas Fisher calls it "more like PR work than lobbying. And it's amazing how few of them follow up when they've made a pitch. They write a letter, and that's it. MPs get a lot of mail."

Weren't Sinister

"In my time, I've only seen American style lobbying here once. Time and Readers' Digest sent up two men to fight the Royal Commission on Publications. But they weren't sinister about it."

Fisher explained: "You've got to remember that Ottawa is a small and gossip place. The senior group in Ottawa is small, too. Their morality is good, solid Presbyterianism. It is inconceivable that any effective lobbying, with large sums of money changing hands, could take place."

Students File Tuition Brief

University of Victoria student council presented a brief to the provincial government Tuesday as part of its fight against a tuition fee increase.

Presentation was made to Provincial Secretary Wesley

Black by student council vice-president Rolli Cochioni.

Copies of the brief were sent to all members of parliament. NDP and Liberal party leaders have also been approached in an attempt to get the provincial government to increase its grants to B.C. universities.

Council members presented a similar brief last week to the board of governors requesting a temporary postponement of fee increases until the state of university financing in Canada has been clarified.

Share the Wealth, Urges Gordon Gibson

Money Grows on Trees

By IAN STREET

It's just 10 years ago this session that Gordon Gibson made his famous "money talks" speech that led to a revolution in B.C.'s forest industry.

Well, the Liberal from North Vancouver is at it again, only this time he is charging that the government isn't getting enough revenue from the province's greatest asset, our forests.

The vast crown forests represent $100 million in actual wealth for everyone in B.C. and Mr. Gibson isn't going to allow the government, if he can help it, to fritter away our birthright.

He says it's like having a bank with 1,700,000 depositors, each with a $10,000 savings account. The government, or rather Premier Bennett, is the president of the bank, and it is up to him to see that none of this money gets out without security to get it back.

If 25 years ago, our forest wealth had been shared, everybody in the province could have had a $500 stake. This is only a tiny fraction of what those shares would be worth today.

Where has the increase gone? Not enough of it into provincial coffers. That is clear from forest revenue figures. But the forest companies are getting fat profits and the federal tax boys aren't doing badly either.

Why not, says Mr. Gibson, give the people a real stake in the natural resources of the province, for instance, by granting everyone $10,000 of credit against the share in our forest wealth.

He points out that the forests renew themselves every 75 years which approximates a human lifetime.

This is a utopian scheme. But, failing this, there are indirect benefits which can be passed on to the people. Increased forest revenues could enable the gov-

CAPITAL REPORT

Manufactured Goods

Annual Climb of 10 Per Cent Likely for Canadian Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—A study of export projections for the period to 1970 says Canada should ship highly - manufactured goods abroad at a steadily expanding rate of 10 per cent a year.

The study, prepared for the Economic Council of Canada, also looks to increased exports of other non-agricultural products and tentatively to some slump in the rate of expansion of agricultural exports.

But the report, prepared by J. R. Downs as a background staff study paper for the council, says there may well be a healthy expansion of farm exports over what has been regarded in the past as average. These would be in the realm of grain sales to Communist countries, still difficult to forecast with any reasonable accuracy.

Mr. Downs, a graduate of the London School of Economics and Saskatchewan University, was chief of the U.S. division in the office of international trade relations and trade policy in the trade and commerce department before joining the economic council last year.

PROJECT GROWTH

The report says that in this context it is reasonable to project the growth of Canadian merchandise exports to $9,800,000,000 in 1970 from $8,800,000,000 in 1963. This is an average annual growth of 5.3 per cent for all exports, compared with a 4.4 per cent in the seven years to 1963.

The report envisages agricultural exports in 1970 amounting to $1,800,000,000, compared with $1,500,000,000 in 1963. This represents an annual increase of 1.5 per cent between 1963 and 1970, compared with an actual annual increase of 2.3 per cent in the previous seven years and an increase of 2.9 per cent annually in the seven years before that.

The schools were closed by the government last week following a student riot on the university's campus.

Tories Fearful Of Easy Money

OTTAWA (UPI)—Conservative Marcel Lambert Thursday warned the large Canada Pension Plan fund to be made available for provincial borrowing could lead the provinces into unwise spending.

It was the eighth day of discussion on the complex plan with the end still not in sight.

The Tories yesterday were objecting to provisions allowing the fund—expected to reach $7,000,000,000 by 1965—for whatever purposes they may see fit. Lambert expressed fears provinces may borrow for projects that are "politically, popularly, publicly expedient . . . but may be unwise."

He said there were no safeguards built into the plan to ensure that the loans would be repaid.

He also suggested extensive provincial borrowing could put the fund itself in danger.

TOKYO (AP)—Peking told Moscow Thursday to junk all of Nikita Khrushchev's policies if it wants to restore unity to the Communist world.

"N. S. Khrushchev has vanished from the political arena, but Khrushchevism is not dead and buried," says the official Peking People's Daily. "A glance at the propaganda in the Soviet press these days makes this abundantly clear." The Moscow-Peking dispute "will never end as long as there are still those who believe in Khrushchev revisionism, who follow it and disseminate it, until the day when it is swept clean away," says the paper.

Rescue Try 'Incredible'

TERRACE (CP)—Louis McKay dived time after time into the icy Nass River in unsuccessful attempts to rescue a 74-year-old Indian minister.

Terrace police said today Mr. McKay spent up to 20 minutes fully clothed in the river trying to save Rev. Paul Mercer from drowning Tuesday.

Finally, helped by a man with a pike-pole, he dragged the minister through a hole made when the minister's horse-drawn sleigh plunged through the ice.

Police said McKay "must have had guts galore."

"That water is so cold that after a few minutes his body must have been numb."

Mr. McKay, also dragged the minister's wife, Melinda, and a grandson Roger, 10, from the water. Mr. McKay's own son, Allan, 11, was walking behind the sleigh when it went through, but fell in as he tried to help his father.

"It's incredible that he could get the others out and then go back in to look for Rev. Mercer," the RCMP officer said.

The accident occurred near Greenville, 80 miles northwest of here.

Mr. Mercer, the first B.C. Indian to be ordained in the Anglican Church, has been rector of the church at Alyanash Indian Reserve, about 75 miles northwest of here on the Nass River.

Mr. Mercer was a lay preacher until he became a deacon in 1953. He was ordained in 1954.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Felicia, and a son, Leonard.

'In Force for Present'

Abstinence Rule Change Hinted

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A brief remark in a speech by Pope Paul Wednesday brought speculation that changes may be forthcoming in Roman Catholic rules requiring abstinence on Fridays.

Speaking at his general audience on Ash Wednesday, he said "the usual law of abstinence every Friday remains in force for the present."

Some Vatican circles interpreted the "for the present" phrase as an indication of some possible change in the future.

Other circles said the Pope was simply stating a fact, that the law of abstinence is an act of penitence required by the church but is not irrevocable.

MOSCOW—Mrs. Nina Khrushchev attended the opera this week in her first appearance at the Kremlin since her husband Nikita was ousted from power last October. The audience hardly noticed the former first lady of the Soviet Union, who was quoted as saying she and the ex-premier "now are living a normal, healthy life." Khrushchev, a devoted opera fan, did not accompany his wife when she showed up at the Palace of Congresses inside the Kremlin for Alexander Borodin's opera Prince Igor.

LONDON—David Frost, British Broadcasting Corporation television master of ceremonies and creator of famed That Was the Week That Was, is in hot water over a satirical sketch about birth control. BBC's director-general has apologized to parliamentary critics for the show on the grounds that it "misrepresented Roman Catholic teaching" and priests' practices.

LOS ANGELES—Not long ago, he wore expensive silk shirts, drove a fancy car and some people shook at the mere mention of his name—Mickey Dahlsrud. Now, says attorney Jack Cohen, Cohen is a penniless man whose memory is impaired due to a beating administered by a fellow convict. Dahlsrud will represent Cohen in a civil suit brought by the government for $347,476 in back income taxes.

STOCKHOLM—Queen Louise, wife of King Gustaf Adolf underwent a six-hour operation here after suffering a heart attack.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Prime Minister Pearson will meet Secretary-General Thant for luncheon while here to be the guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Canadian Society of New York.

PARIS—Allied service chiefs and diplomats today attended the funeral of Paul Loeven, Canadian chief public relations officer of NATO who died of a heart attack here.

Lieven's wife, Margaret Homer-Dixon of Victoria, B.C., and his 20-year-old daughter, Tamara, led the mourners.

OSLO—Prof. Per Kragh, who decorated the main wall of the United Nations Security Council chambers, died at 75.

PHILADELPHIA—Matthew J. Calligan has resigned as board chairman of the Curtis Publishing Company as the company reported a 1964 loss of nearly $14,000,000.

TOKYO—Machiko Arima, former Japanese foreign minister, has died at 80.

DETROIT—A judge has bestowed freedom on locomotive engineer John Frazier in the fatal shooting of his wife, Dorothy, 40, her alleged lover and a second man. Judge Vincent Brennan said Frazier should be allowed freedom to raise his family of four children, and placed him on five years probation.

PARIS—Francis Ledue, 53, who has served in the French diplomatic service in Tunis, Bonn and Brussels, will replace Raymond Bessoulet as French ambassador to Canada.

Scientists to Get Navy Ship

The Canadian naval auxiliary vessel Laymore will undergo a $180,000 conversion job at HMC Dockyard this summer and be turned over to the Pacific Naval Laboratory.

Included in the conversion will be improved laboratory and accommodation facilities, increased power supplies and an anti-roll tank to provide a stable platform for oceanographic research.

Entry of the new research vessel Endeavour, now under construction and the converted vessel Laymore into the service will bring on the retirement of the auxiliary vessels Oshawa and Whitehurst.

Youths Admit Damage, Theft At Golf Club

Two youths who broke into the George Vale Golf Club early Thursday morning, stole $35 worth of alcohol and other items and caused $300 worth of damage to the premises, Esquimalt court was told Thursday.

Thomas Cudmore, 18, of 1203 Yukon, and Richard William Ballard, 18, of 711 Johnson, who were arrested shortly after the break-in, both pleaded guilty to breaking and entry and theft.

Sgt. Arthur Burton of Esquimalt police testified that just after 3 a.m. Thursday the two youths broke into the club and stole 50 bottles of beer, seven bottles of liquor, cigarettes, cigars and candy.

Cost of windows broken and damage to the club save the youths amounted to $300, Sgt. Burton said.

Cudmore, who in February received a one-year's suspended sentence for breaking and entry with intent and theft over $50, was remanded until today for sentence.

Ballard, who had no previous conviction, was remanded until March 12 for sentence.

In city magistrate's court, two Vancouver girls who pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to being found in common bawdy house were each sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

Donna Mae Roberts, 19, and Donald Margaret Harris, 18, both of 611 Prior, Vancouver, were arrested Feb. 23 in the Station Hotel, 501 Cormorant.

Magistrate William Ostler said that although it was the girls' first offence, it was not their first offence.

Even in the case of a first conviction, it was wrong for a court to order probation if the defendant showed no willingness for self-rehabilitation, he said.

In view of the girls' present "state of mind," he said he was satisfied there was no case for probation.

In Saanich court, James Lyne, 18, of HMCS Antigonish, pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl the week before Christmas and was remanded in custody until next Thursday for sentence.

Saanich Det. George Walton testified that last Dec. 18 Lyne, in the company of several other youths and girls, were in the rumpus room of a house in Saanich.

Lyne and a girl left the rumpus room to go to a bedroom, where, Lyne tried to seduce her.

Det. Walton said that when questioned by police, Lyne had said he had wanted to have intercourse, but did not go through with it.

Magistrate Ostler dismissed a charge under the Juvenile Delinquents Act against a Saanich woman.

The charge said that between Jan. 15 and 19 the woman committed an act likely to make a child a delinquent by harboring a 15-year-old girl in her house, knowing that the girl had run away from home and that her mother was looking for her.

According to evidence, the girl's parents were divorced and the girl was in the legal cus-

Blizzard Freezes Britain

LONDON (UPI) — Blizzard conditions Thursday gripped Britain, Ireland and much of the Continent.

Britain, including London, was like a "freeze box" with three-quarters of it snowbound and the rest icebound, a spokesman for the Royal Automobile Club said.

Travelers said the storm that has covered their city with a foot of snow in the past two days was the worst since the winter of 1955-56.

Snow drifts up to six feet were piled up in Ireland after a severe storm swept the country during the night.

Services Fund Seeks Charities

The Provincial Government Employees' Community Services Fund is looking for charities.

The fund, which raised $21,000 for local charities last year, is arranging interviews with heads of charities which took part last year or which might qualify.

All applications must be addressed to W. E. Mills at the public works department not later than April 15.

Caesar Died Clean Non-Smoker

The idea of March are fast approaching and Victoria members of the Non-Smokers Association will commemorate the death of a great non-smoker.

"It was during the idea that a very prominent non-smoker, Julius Caesar, was brutally murdered. He died clean if a bit ruffled," said Robert Ludwig of Vancouver.

In memory of the great tragedy, he said, the association is asking all persons with initials J. C. to avoid smoking on March 15.

Continual improvement in city law enforcement was the pledge made Thursday by Victoria Police Chief John Gregory.

Chief Gregory, 41, was confirmed in his position Wednesday by the Victoria police commission.

His resignation from the RCMP, from which he had been on leave since his temporary appointment as chief in September, 1962, will take effect shortly.

"I appreciate the trust and confidence the police commission has placed in me," Chief Gregory said Thursday in an interview.

"Although I have some regrets at leaving the active service of the RCMP, I feel that with the support of officers and members of the Victoria city police, we will continue to progress and provide Victorians with a police force of which they can be very proud."

He did not envisage any recruiting campaign at present, as the force was up to strength. Emphasis on formal training of officers in police college and other institutions would continue, he added.

Belmont delivers clean, clear taste through a new, moisturized charcoal filter.

If you are like the many smokers we talked to in a recent study, you are interested in a charcoal filter cigarette... plus clean, clear tobacco taste.

Benson & Hedges researchers broke through a year ago to bring you Canada's first charcoal filter. In Phase II of their research, they sought to improve the charcoal filter further by combining with it another notably effective filtering agent—water. They succeeded. Today, Belmont has Canada's first moisturized charcoal filter.

Because this moisturized charcoal filter is so much more efficient, the taste of the tobacco—and only the tobacco—comes through clean and clear. As a result, Benson & Hedges have been able to match a more advanced tobacco blend to the new filtering system. You enjoy clarity of flavour and subtleties of taste never before possible. And in addition to its clean, clear taste, this new blend gives you a slower burning, more leisurely smoke.

If you haven't tried a Belmont recently, try one today. Taste the difference these advances have made.

Fort Nelson

Ad for Hospital Opening Termed Misuse of Funds

The government was accused by using a newspaper advertisement to promote a hospital opening.

The advertisement was inserted on the opening of a new hospital at Fort Nelson and contained pictures of Health Minister Martin and Jacob Huhn (SC-North Peace River). Opposition Leader Strachan asked whether public funds are being used to "propagandize" the Social Credit government. "Shocking!" cried opposition members.

"You didn't do that in Burnaby!" shouted Burnaby NDP member Gordon Dowding.

"That advertisement is a misuse of public funds," charged Leo Mirusick (NDP-Cranbrook) who also called it "one of the cheapest types of political tricks."

Mr. Martin replied that the ads are inserted to give recognition to those who have helped make the hospital possible.

Little Done About Ensigns

OTTAWA, (CP) — Opposition signs which are no longer being used on federal property, but nothing has been decided about other organizations and individuals.

Leader Diefenbaker wanted to know in the Commons Thursday how individuals and organizations could buy the Red Ensign flags would be made available to churches and museums. He said requests could be made through members of Parliament.

Most manufacturers save the best features for their high-priced luxury models.

So do we.

Except our luxury model is medium-priced.

Ever wondered why you have to pay through the nose just to get a little luxury in a car? It's because most manufacturers figure that things like map lights, broadloom carpeting, walnut panelling on the dash board, adjustable arm rests and floor consoles simply aren't meant for a medium-priced car.

So they save up these features—then they build a high-priced car around them—all at the expense of the rest of their line. They call this "hold-back". We call it nonsense.

If you're in the market for a larger car, you should be able to buy one, with all the trimmings, without having to mortgage the family manor. That's why we have the Ambassador. It's the medium-priced model meant for the larger car-buyer—the one that offers a list of luxury features comparable to that of any car in the high-priced field. Options? 72 of the best. And, of course, the Ambassador embodies all the exclusive construction features that make Rambler the outstanding value in every field.

Don't you owe it to yourself to see just how many luxury features a medium-priced car can offer? You won't find another car like it... except at your Rambler dealer's.

B.C. TEL

Concern over high telephone rates has prompted aldermen to arrange that the matter be brought up at a Union of B.C. Municipalities meeting in New Westminster Thursday.

Municipal Manager Dennis Young was instructed to get on the telephone and urge that the matter be discussed at the meeting which was taking place at that time on the mainland.

FEDERAL HEARING

Matter was precipitated at a committee meeting by notice of a hearing by the federal board of transport commissioners. The hearing will consider B.C. Telephone capital investment, earnings, revenues, expenses and debts as a basis for a possible change in rates.

Time and place of the hearing was not given although a deadline for a statement of intentions by municipalities was set out.

It is April 1. The telephone company must notify the board of its intention to submit arguments by April 15.

PEOPLE UNHAPPY

"I think we would be remiss in our duty if we didn't make representations," Ald. Austin Curtis said. "Our people are very unhappy about rates which are far too high as compared with Alberta and Saskatchewan. Mr. Young warned that making a submission would be a costly business and the city might well join with other municipalities in preparing an argument."

TO EXECUTIVE

Thus it was decided to place the matter before the executive of UBCM which was meeting on the mainland.

Mayor Wilson, first vice-president of the UBCM executive, was attending the meeting.

Party Chief

Newly-elected national leader of Communist Party of Canada, William Kashtan will address public meeting at 8 p.m. Saturday in Williams Building, 749 Broughton. He will also speak at Student Union Building, University of Victoria, Tuesday, Shop Aggression - Negotiate a Peaceful Settlement in Viet Nam will be his topic.

Tag Day Sought

Oak Bay council has agreed to a request from the Women's Auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Clinic to hold a tag day in the community April 10.

To Arbitration

Shorter Week Means Additional Firemen

If Victoria firemen win the 42-hour week for which they are negotiating, the city will have to hire 12 more men, aldermen were told Thursday.

Discussions, which have been in progress for some weeks, have passed the conciliation stage and are now to be taken before an arbitration board. City Manager Dennis Young told city council committee members.

SATISFIED LATER

It was necessary, he said, to make an immediate appointment to the board to represent the city. The action could be ratified by council later.

Aldermen agreed that George Wilkinson should represent the city on the board and that E. E. Peartman should present the city's arguments.

"We just got nowhere in trying to have the firemen change their platoon (shift) system," Mr. Young told the meeting. "This means that, if the number of hours is reduced from 48 to 42, the shifts will remain the same."

ALLOW MORE TIME

"It will simply mean that we will have to allow more time between shifts and this, of course, means that the city will have to hire more men."

Two other issues in contention, Mr. Young said, are the elimination of a telephone allowance for firemen and a reduction in the number of statutory holidays.

U.K. Troops To Quit Germany?

LONDON (UPI) - Defence Minister Denis Healey has implied that Britain may cut its troops in West Germany unless West Germany contributes more to their upkeep.

"We are still spending a higher proportion of our national wealth on defence than any other country of our size in the world," Mr. Healey told the House of Commons.

"The strains of these demands on our balance of payments must be taken very seriously indeed," he said. "I do not think this is too much to ask."

Britain has more than 50,000 troops stationed in Germany.

Chamber to Join Tourist Group

Victoria chamber of commerce tourist industry group voted Tuesday to join the Canadian Tourist Association.

The group also endorsed the program of the Victoria Visitors' Bureau and will suggest city council lead the way for more financial contributions to the bureau on the municipal level.

Canada's Petra Burka Wins World Skating Championship

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Canada's Petra Burka, 18, won the women's title at the world figure skating championships Thursday night despite a fall near the end of an otherwise flawless performance.

The Toronto charmer, a native of the Netherlands, earlier had won the compulsory figures in the feminine division.

Miss Burka fell to the ice while doing a double flip near the end of the rink but came back smiling to finish her exhibition in fine style.

She was the unanimous choice of the nine judges. For technical merit, she received seven votes of 5.9 points out of a possible six, and two for 5.8. In artistic impression the voting was five of 5.9 each, two of 5.8 and two of 5.7.

AUSTRIAN RUNNER-UP

The runner-up was 21-year-old Regine Heitzer, European champion from Austria.

Peggy Fleming, 16-year-old Pasadena, Calif., youngster, was third.

Miss Burka succeeds Skoulik Djistra of Holland, who won this title three consecutive years before turning professional.

The Canadian star, wearing an emerald-green costume with a green ribbon in her high-piled black hair, rolled a beautiful double lutz and a double axel and excellent height into her spirited performance.

ONLY THIRD

Miss Heitzer was expected to give the Canadian girl a strong battle for the title, but her free skating was not up to the standard of Petra's and she was only third in the compulsory figures.

Miss Burka, Canada's 1964 woman athlete of the year, won the Canadian senior women's title in 1964 and 1965. She finished third in the 1964 world championship at Dortmund and was third also in the Olympics at Innsbruck.

She won the North American women's championship at Rochester, N.Y., earlier this year. She is the first Canadian to win this title since 1948 when it went to Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa.

In the men's division, Alain Calmat of France held a slight lead over another Canadian and an Austrian after the first three compulsory figures in that event.

Donald Knight of Dundas, Ont., 1965 Canadian senior men's champion, finished the three figures in a tie with Emmerich Danzer, 20, of Austria, who edged the 24-year-old Calmat for the European title last month.

The first championship to be decided was won by Russia's Oleg Protopopov and his wife, Ljudmila Belousova, who gave an artistic and flawless performance of leaps and lifts Wednesday night in the pairs.

This is the first time any Russian entry has won a world figure skating title.

A Czech brother-sister team skated closer to their fourth straight world championship in the dancing division.

Eva Romanova and Pavel Roman made a sweep of the first choice of all seven judges for the second consecutive night in the compulsory dance routines.

The title will be settled after free skating tonight.

A British duo, Janet Sawbridge and David Hicks-Babbington, was second and the U.S. team of Lorna Dyer and John Carrell third.

Vancouver slapped Doug Cameron's Prince Edward Island quartet from Charlottetown 7-5.

Braunstein, third Don Duguid, second Ron Braunstein and lead Ray Turnbull had nothing but difficulty throughout their defeat.

They fell behind 3-2 after five ends and watched their chances disappear when Terry Braunstein came up eight feet from the front of the house with a draw attempt to leave Polyblank a free draw for three.

Braunstein battled back with three on the seventh but Polyblank, with key assistance from third Boots Butera, picked up a decisive pair on the eighth, a single on the ninth and three on the 10th.

STRAPE QUEBEC

Alberta, with a skimpy chance to tie for the lead, exploded for a pair of fives to strap Quebec. Shaken by Braunstein, the Calgary shotmakers trailed 9-0 after five ends against Tracy.

However, they struck back for three on the sixth and two on the seventh before surrendering another pair. Then, Alberta took heart from their first five, engineered after two brilliant shots by third Slim Otterston.

A single on the 10th tied it when Tracy was heavy on an attempted draw but Quebec scored on the 11th to lead by one going home.

JAMES HOURS

Alberta jammed the house with rocks and collected five when Lashuk used a simple takeout for his last rock.

MacCharles made a hit to count two on the 12th end and force Franklin into extra play and Franklin rolled out on a takeout on the 13th. He made a takeout and stuck on the 14th for the victory.

Grant also failed to connect with his last rock on the 13th end after he surrendered a pair on the 12th. However, he drew the port on the 14th to even his rink's record at 4-4.

RAS EASY TIME

While Braunstein stopped Lashuk in the eighth round of the 11-team round-robin competition, Worth had an easy time earning a 14-8 triumph over MacCharles.

Polyblank rapped Lyons 9-8, Arnet stopped Franklin 8-5, and Grant topped Cameron 8-5.

In the morning round, Braunstein stopped Tracy 7-5, Worth edged Arnet 7-4, Lashuk rapped Lyons 13-7, Cameron upset Polyblank 12-5 and Franklin edged Grant 11-10.

Braunstein had difficulty in both of his early matches.

When the smoke dust of battle had settled at Saskatoon where 4,300 fans watched the action Thursday night, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were tied with 7-1 records. Northern Ontario was third at 6-2 and Alberta fourth at 6-3.

Quebec owned five victories against three losses, Ontario four wins against the same number of defeats and British Columbia and Prince Edward Island identical records of three wins and five losses. Nova Scotia had two wins in nine games and New Brunswick and Newfoundland one win each against seven defeats.

Eight Holdovers Play For Canadian Club

TAMPERE, Finland, (CP) — Eight members of the 1964 Canadian Olympic national team and five players from Winnipeg Maroons were picked Thursday for the official 17-man team competing in the world hockey championships.

Coach Gord Simpson announced four other additions including former professionals Al Johnson, a Winnipeg-born forward, and veteran Gary Alderson, also of Winnipeg.

The Canadian squad was cut from 26 players to the maximum of 17 allowed each of the eight countries in the pool A championship round-robin series. Canada plays its first game today against Finland.

Members of the 1964 national team in the lineup are: Goalie Ken Broderick of Toronto, forward, and veteran Gary Alderson, also of Winnipeg.

Basketball Series Draw on Sunday

ALBANY — George "Porky" Andrews and Jack Forrest, former Albany Athletic greats, will make the opening round draw for the Canadian senior men's basketball championships this weekend.

They will conduct the draw during half-time ceremonies in an exhibition game between Athletics, British Columbia champions, and the United States Army all-star team Sunday afternoon.

It was decided, at a committee meeting here, that the first round of the Canadian championships, to be held here March 12-13, will pit two western clubs against eastern opposition.

Athletics' two pick-ups for the Canadian finals, Pete Simmonds of Victoria Haida Chiefs and Dave Way of New Westminster Bakers, will line up with Athletics against the U.S. Army team Saturday and Sunday.

Dodgeheads will be staged each day, with Albany high school senior boys playing Athletics juniors in both preliminary games.

Saturday's preliminary game starts at 7 p.m. and the feature contest at 9 p.m. Sunday's preliminary game starts at 1 p.m. and the second game at 2:30 p.m.

Athletics expect to gain some valuable experience from the games.

At least two members of the army team received all-American nominations during their college playing days and another was an alternate member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic basketball team.

Seagram's V.O. is still the largest-selling Canadian Whisky in the world!

There are towns in Tibet where no V.O. is sold. But these are greatly outnumbered by the cities, towns and hamlets in 130 countries where V.O. is sold. In fact, more Seagram's V.O. is sold throughout the world than any other whisky exported from any country.

Why? We think it must be the quality of the product. The mellow flavour of Seagram's V.O. combines brilliance of taste with lightness of tone—and this balance of good taste never varies. As a result, V.O. is enjoyed by a world of people from Karachi to Kilauea. So remember... V.O., V.O., where ever you are!

Seagram's V.O. is still the largest-selling Canadian Whisky in the world!

Chinooks Face Rugged Foes

Who Needs Finesse?

By BARRIE WILLIAMS
HAMILTON (Special) — Coach Jack Kenyon's crew from Calgary simply died with their sneakers on in the second half that is.

They were knocked out of the national junior basketball championships by three unbeatable Montreal Orchids who probably have never heard of the word finesse, but obviously don't need it.

Orchids were down 15 points in yesterday's semi-final game at McMaster Drill Hall, but at the final buzzer, the scoreboard showed:

Montreal 58... Calgary 37.

And the Orchids did it by sheer all out hustle and fight, disdaining pretty plays or any sort of system. Just a bunch of dedicated, red-suited players jumping, shooting and scrapping for possession of that ball.

This now sets the stage for tonight's championship game between Orchids and the undefeated Victoria Chinooks for the junior basketball crown.

Should the Orchids win this one, it will force a deciding game Saturday night because a team has to lose two before bowing out of contention and Victoria has won three straight.

Coach Kenyon couldn't supply an answer to his team's second half collapse and Orchids' Bob Pollock merely said "What can you say..."

Two things in the dying seconds could have probably given Calgary the game. If they had happened, trailing 58-35 Calgary ace, Ashley Court streaked in from about 30 feet and had a clear shot at the basket. He elected to fire a pass to a man underneath however which went wide and Calgary lost the ball.

But he came back seconds later to make it 58-37 with a long jump shot. Then with the clock hands going to that ominous meeting place which signals the end of the game, Montreal missed a foul shot and Calgary giant Gary Collier, a standout rebounder, dashed forward and let fly.

The ball hit the rim. And the buzzer went to end it all.

Tonight's final should be a tremendous battle, because Montreal lost that squeaker, 60-57, to Victoria Wednesday night.

In a way Victoria and Calgary play a similar type game, well balanced set pattern and having a number of men capable of hitting the basket as well as turning in fine defensive work.

But the big question now is... will the scrappiness and fight of Montreal overcome the finesse of Victoria like it did yesterday against Calgary?

The answer will be provided in a matter of hours.

Three Defending Champs Returning To Colonist-Mayfair Tenpin Spiel

Three teams have made certain of taking part in the second annual Vancouver Island Tenpin bonspiel, scheduled at Mayfair Lanes over the Easter weekend, April 16-19, under the joint sponsorship of The Daily Colonist and Mayfair Lanes.

Although no entry limit has been set it is likely that no more than 128 teams can be accommodated in the time available and with interest at a new high, officials expect a minimum entry of 100 teams.

They're certain

Certain to be among the competitors are the Duncan Flashes, the Rolling Stones and the Scotties.

Their hosts to get in is understandable—all being among the winners in last year's inaugural event, which drew 80 teams.

Ron Smillie and Bob Willis of the Flashes were with the Duncan Bowling Centre team which last year finished third in the Mayfair event.

With Scotties

Rick Blake, Ken Dyer and Joe Smith were with Scotties last year when the team finished third in the Trophy Shop event and this year have Bruce Whitehead as a replacement for Harold Thickett.

And there has been two changes for the Rolling Stones, fourth last year in the Trophy Shop event. Back are the two distaff winners, Doris Bergeron and Cassie Knudsen, with Bud Knudsen and Ron Phillips replacing Gary Barker and Al Cliffe.

A SUCCESS STORY

The Doman Special Speeds On

From a dream to reality in 10 years.
That's the success story of Herb Doman.
The enterprising Duncan man sat down one day and figured out an entirely new concept of retailing building materials.

So sure was he of his own idea he decided to risk what money he had in putting it to the test.
Realizing his plans would take some years to reach fruition, he started business with a small trucking company.

From a rather shaky start he soon had a flourishing business operating the length of Vancouver Island.

In only a few years he became one of the best known trucking contractors on the Island.

With business booming, he decided it was time to put his original plan to the test.

He entered the building supply field, opening branches in Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan.

To start, these branches catered mostly to contractors. Then, when he felt the moment was ripe, he put his own merchandising concept into operation.

He designed and built his first modern self-service Building Supply Centre in Victoria three years ago.

Together with Victoria store manager, Mike Jiggins, Mr. Doman put his new ideas in merchandising into effect and the nucleus for the future Doman chain of modern self-serve stores was born.

With the Victoria store flourishing, he decided to model the Duncan store on Victoria.

Offering a complete range of building materials at competitive prices, the stores have met with resounding success.

In fact they have been so popular plans are now under way to convert the Nanaimo store.

Meanwhile, Doman's Transport has grown, and with the acquisition of Marpole Transport in Vancouver last fall, is now one of the largest trucking firms in B.C.

ALL FOR THIS—But it was worth it, as shown by the beaming smile of store manager Mike Jiggins.

THREE FIRSTS

Wonderful World Of Wood for Him

Three years . . . three entries . . . three firsts.
That's the outstanding record of Mike Jiggins.
And he owes it all to wood.

For in the wonderful world of woodwork, Mike has big ideas.

Manager of Doman's Building Supplies at 280 Bay Street in Victoria, he gained his latest success just recently.

His idea for Doman's entry in a National Forest Product Week merchandising contest won first prize.

And it was by no means third time lucky for this 31-year-old manager.

His entries in the same competition the previous two years took top place each time.

Planning Counts

"It's just a matter of planning," he says.

"The public just doesn't realize all the potentials wood offers."

"What we have to do is get across the idea of using wood for a variety of purposes."

When the competition was held in September last year he more than succeeded in his aim.

Over 5,000 persons visited Doman's showroom during the two days it was held.

There they saw just what it takes to be a three-time winner.

Planning . . . and success.

That was the verdict of the contest's two independent judges, Robert Reynaud of Montreal, national chairman of the 1964 National Forest Products Week, and Fred Legendre, also of Montreal, who was NFPW secretary.

Both judges noted the "high degree of detailed planning."

They also noted that the firm's promotion and sale had paid off handsomely in cash receipts.

Mike Jiggins began planning the promotion a year in advance. At that time it was decided to revitalize the sale around a "Build With Wood" contest open to youngsters aged 10 to 15.

Ordering of merchandise for the contest and sale began last April.

The firm looked for good quality, volume sale items which could be price-discounted while still affording a proper mark-up.

Some of the sale bargains the company was able to offer as a result of the planning, included:

• Panels of antique elm and chateau birch for half the normal price.

• An entirely discontinued paint inventory, also at half price.

• 54 Berry garage doors.

• Lino floor tiles, accordion-style folding doors from Hong Kong and a convertible table saw.

Pre-Judged

At the same time, entries in the Build With Wood contest, were put on display.

The entries had been pre-judged to allow award winners to have their works on show.

Top prizes in the contest included bicycles.

Having learned of his third success, Mike Jiggins promptly settled down to work out a promotion idea for this year's contest.

The contest, run by the magazine "Building Supply Dealer," awards the prize to the firm which in its opinion best puts across the idea of wood to the public.

Tree-Growing

Last year Doman's took the honors with a tree-growing competition among Victoria school children.

The youngsters were each given a young seedling and the winner was the one owning the tallest tree after the year was up.

The year before they were awarded first place for a "Homeowners Exhibition."

Mr. Jiggins believes the contests for children help stimulate the youngsters' interest in wood at an early age.

As they grow older they remember what they have learned about the commercial uses of wood and put their knowledge to practical use.

He hopes they also remember where they learned about wood and trade with his own company.

Won't Forget

If the latest contest is anything to go by they will find it difficult to forget!

During the two-day sale and display of work the store was decorated in a forest setting and literature on forests and wildlife was displayed prominently on store walls.

Tree-shaped cookies and tree-ornamented cup cakes were served with coffee free of charge.

The entire sales staff was dressed in lumbermen's shirts and safety hats.

Said Mr. Jiggins: "We at Doman's are highly elated at the opportunity to get across the message about the value and importance of wood and at the same time to be able to do such good business."

If his words are anything to go by he's all set now to make it four times lucky.

Cablevision Status Questioned

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five B.C. Court of Appeal judges assembled here today to decide whether three cable television firms are utilities and therefore under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission or whether they come solely under federal regulations as broadcast receivers.

The firms are Victoria Cablevision Ltd., Cowichan Valley TV Ltd., and Powell River Television Ltd.

The PUC claims jurisdiction while the companies claim the TV signal they supply comes to their master receiving unit through federal airwaves.

To bring health and medical services to Canadians in remote parts of Canada, the Canadian Red Cross operates 28 outpost hospitals and nursing stations.

Fluoridation Law Needed

Legislation modelled on Ontario laws that permit municipalities to fluoridate drinking water without a plebiscite should be introduced in B.C., the legislature was told Thursday.

Dr. Patrick McGeer (L-Point Grey) told the House he would introduce such a bill at the next session if there weren't any drastic changes in the fluoridation picture in the next 12 months.

MASS MEDICATION

This led to a sharp clash with Herbert Bruch (SC-Esquimalt), who said he was "absolutely against" fluoridation on grounds that it was mass medication.

Health Minister Eric Martin said the government's public health branch is continuing to educate people on the benefits of fluorides in drinking water.

CONTRVERSIAL ISSUE

But he refused to express a personal view because of the controversial nature of the issue. Dr. McGeer said the Ontario law permits municipal councils to decide to fluoridate the water supply without plebiscite. But there is an "escape clause" which requires that a vote be held if 10 per cent of electors petition for an end to fluoridation.

Shortly after the Ontario laws were passed, said Dr. McGeer, metro Toronto began fluoridation of its water supply. There was very little fuss at the time.

The legislation was introduced after a two-year study completed in 1962 showed there are no ill effects from fluorides other than mottling of teeth if the concentration is too high. The commission, which includes a judge, also decided no infringement of human rights was involved.

PEOPLE WHO NEED IT

Mr. Bruch said doctors have been wrong before and suggested that if fluorides were added to soft drinks "the people who need it most are going to get all they need."

Dr. McGeer said: "There is no public health measure so widely practised and which has been so convincingly proved to have no adverse effect, except some mottling of teeth."

Bed Surplus Reported By Martin

Vancouver Island nursing homes have a surplus of long-term care beds, Health Minister Martin told the legislature Thursday.

Mr. Martin made the statement in explaining there no longer is a serious shortage of chronic-care beds in B.C.

He said the surplus extends to Lower Mainland nursing homes and pointed out that at times there have been "several hundred" unoccupied beds in the province.

Mr. Martin promised Dave Stupich (NDP-Nanaimo) there would soon be an announcement made on an application by Nanaimo General Hospital to establish chronic-care facilities in the hospital's now unoccupied top floor.

Negotiations are still continuing, the minister added.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI)—Lyle Bowen and employees of his music store got a stinking afternoon off. Bowen had opened a drawer in a desk that had not been touched in several days and out popped a skunk-fighting maid.

THIS WAS THE SCENE for Doman's award-winning sale. Looking more like a downtown store around Christmas time it attracted more than 5,000 people during the two days it was held.

What's New in Iceworms?

Sikusi wasn't the first iceworm, a court reporter from the Yukon Territory said here Thursday.

Sikusi, a 15-inch toy iceworm made of fox fur, was introduced in Ottawa Wednesday by Northern Affairs Minister Lalng as another sample of Eskimo ingenuity.

"I bought one in Whitehorse in November, 1963," said Alfred Godolphin. "It was made by Jim Robb. He paints pictures on stretched hides and writes articles for the local newspaper. I'm sure he originated it, and I wouldn't want someone else to get the credit."

Mr. Godolphin said the one he bought in Whitehorse was made of sheepskin. It was one inch wide, five inches long and had two eyes.

Another iceworm pre-dates both of the newcomers — the one in Robert W. Service's poem The Iceworm Cocktail, around the turn of the century. It was "the talk of Dawson town" the night they made a sourdough out of "this Pica-dilly dude" Major Brown.

"For that iceworm (so they told him) of such formidable size

"Was—a stick of stained spaghetti with two red ink-spots for eyes."

Labor Council Seeks Account of Session

Victoria Labor Council will invite a member of the official opposition party in the legislature to give an account of the session.

One council member suggested bringing members from all parties to the meeting in order to get a complete picture of the session.

Council agreed in the past members of the NDP had been invited to a council meeting and decided to stick with this practice.

WHAT ABOUT LABOR?

But not before Charles Peck demanded that a member of the Social Credit party be brought to a meeting to explain what the government was doing with the recommendations made by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

"It seems to me they (the Government) are not doing a hell of a lot for labor," he said. Jack Driscoll said two NDP

Meter Men To Get More Money

The city will pay more this year for the services of commissioners.

Finance committee was told Thursday that the hourly rate, which is set by the federal government in accordance with a sliding scale based on general wage rates, will be increased from $1.85 to $1.95 an hour.

"There is nothing we can do about it," said city manager Dennis Young recommending that the new rate be incorporated in the city's contract with the veterans' group.

Commissionaires are used by the city for attending parking meters, for patrolling Beacon Hill Park and for other special duties.

U.S. Closes Five Libraries

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced Thursday it is closing all five of its libraries and reading rooms in Indonesia because of "intolerable" harassment by the Indonesian government.

The 17 U.S. information agency officers in the Indonesian operation also are to be withdrawn promptly, and all other U.S. information activities there, including distribution of a magazine, films, press materials and exhibits will be ended.

No tire kicking for Ben...

Ben Carlton is a Class A mechanic. Works on cars all day. A good kind of job to have if you're buying a used car. But when Ben bought his Goodwill Used Car, did he go through the under-the-hood, up-on-the-hoist, kick-all-the-tires routine? Not a bit of it. He called his Goodwill dealer. Asked the salesman to pick out a good, clean late model luxury car for about $1500 dollars. That was on a Thursday. The next Tuesday the salesman called Ben back. At lunchtime he went down to take a look. That night he picked up a 1960 Buick LeSabre that looked like it had never left the showroom floor. Along with a Goodwill Warranty.

There's a moral to the Ben Carlton story. People who know cars know that when it comes to used ones it's best to put yourself in the hands of an established, respected dealer. Like the man who sells Goodwill Used Cars. He has lots at stake in his community. He's in business to stay. He sells new Pontiacs, Buicks and Cadillacs. And the best used cars in town.

Bladon Bans Tea-Room

BLADON, England (Reuters) — The parish council that guards the land surrounding Sir Winston Churchill's grave passed a resolution Wednesday night against any commercial development that would change the character of their quiet village.

More than 250,000 tourists flocked to Bladon Church where Sir Winston Churchill was buried Jan. 21. Comm. Charles French said an application for a tea room would be "the first pebble in an avalanche which would destroy the village."

Collusion?

Speaker Checks Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Alan Macnaughton agreed Thursday to investigate charges of collusion between justice department officials and Liberal MPs over questions appearing on the Commons order paper that are embarrassing to other members.

New Democrat Douglas Fisher suggested the investigation as an alternative to referring the matter to the privileges and elections committee, and Mr. Macnaughton said he would be very glad to make a "thorough investigation."

Mr. Fisher's action came after Walter Dinsdale (PC-Brandon-Souris) spoke on a question of personal privilege to defend himself over a letter he wrote in 1960 to Justice Minister Fulton's office on behalf of a constituent, Buddy Leeds, who had been charged with forgery.

THREE NAMED

The letter was tabled in the Commons earlier this week in reply to a written question from Joseph Macabuso (L-Hamilton West).

Mr. Fisher named Mr. Macabuso, Ron Basford (Vancouver-Burrard) and Lloyd Francis (Carleton) as Liberals who had placed embarrassing questions, and said it was obvious someone in the justice department had searched files to "drag up" information to embarrass other MPs.

He said the dates and details contained in the written questions could not have been obtained otherwise.

LEADERS SPLIT

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, who charged that Liberal MPs had been allowed to snoop, was opposed to investigation by the Speaker since it might compromise the latter's position in the House.

Prime Minister Pearson supported the Speaker's decision.

494 Children Await Adoption

The government has 494 children awaiting adoption, Welfare Minister Black said Thursday.

Replying to Dave Barrett (NDP-Dewdney), Mr. Black said 191 of the children considered government wards are under one year of age.

Mr. Black said 661 parents were accepted as suitable foster parents during 1964 and 51 are still awaiting a child.

In addition, 762 applications were made for adoption last year and the department processed 1,185.

Mr. Black also disclosed that 89 people resigned from the department for various reasons last year.

Peterson, Turner Recovering

Both veteran NDP member Arthur Turner and Education Minister Leslie Peterson are resting comfortably after undergoing medical treatment, the legislature was told Thursday.

Mr. Turner, the second member for Vancouver-East, was operated on Wednesday in a Vancouver hospital for a gall bladder ailment.

Opposition Leader Strachan said Mr. Turner is "resting comfortably and coming along very well."

Premier Bennett said Mr. Peterson is now "coming along fine" after being discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital, where he underwent treatment for a kidney ailment.

Pipeline Explodes

Burning Gas Kills 17

NATCHITOCHE, La. (UPI)—A big natural gas pipeline exploded in pre-dawn darkness Thursday and buried sheets of fire over surrounding homes like a monster flame thrower. At least 17 persons were killed, half of them children.

Six persons were injured and four of them are in hospital.

Four frame homes and a house trailer as well as seven automobiles were burned or melted to earth level. Trees that gave shade to the homes on the rolling countryside just outside Natchitoches were burned to blackened poles.

A five-acre tract resembled a battlefield after a firebomb raid. At 6:04 a.m. one of four natural gas pipelines of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. suddenly exploded with a force that jarred people from beds in Natchitoches, one and a half miles away.

In moments, the row of homes along Shell Road, just across from the gates of the Natchitoches Country Club, were engulfed in flames.

Fire towered as high as 500 feet. The pipeline was shut off, but the gas in a seven-mile section of it burned for 30 minutes with fierce heat.

The explosion ripped a crater 10 feet long, 20 feet wide and seven feet deep.

Britain Proposes Monopoly Control

LONDON (AP)—The British government published a bill Wednesday to stiffen control of monopolies. A special clause would outlaw mergers of big newspapers without government consent.

The newspaper clause follows the collapse of two Sunday and three daily papers in London during recent years and a number of takeovers of provincial papers by large chains.

OWNERS MUST REPORT

Under the new bill, an owner whose papers have a total weekly circulation of 3,000,000 must report any proposed acquisition or sale to the board of trade.

The commission's powers also would be broadened under the new bill. It would be able to hold up any merger for six months instead of watching powerlessly while it goes ahead and then trying to unscramble it later.

. . . Work on Lawn

Preparing for first spring lawn work are George Lemire, 2220 Middown Road, and his dog Mitzi.

High Pressure to Him But It's Spring to Us

The weatherman calls it "an area of high pressure" but for residents of southern Vancouver Island it's the first breath of spring.

Lawns were cut, beaches visited, and toddlers discarded their snowsuits to play in the backyard as the sun warmed the Pacific coast.

High temperature in Victoria was 55 Thursday, eight degrees above the average maximum for this time of the year.

Other warm spots: Nanaimo, 59 degrees; Seattle, 67; Fraser Valley, 62.

Springtime sight was the first clipping of lawns this year at the Empress Hotel.

Some university students found their way to Gonzales Beach, where they made designs in the sand and moulded plaster of paris impressions.

The weather office said storms have remained offshore, permitting dry air to come from the land toward the ocean.

This has circulated the warm air which floats along the coast.

Today should be fine and bright, with temperatures in Greater Victoria about 58 degrees.

Weather forecasters are optimistic about weekend prospects. Saturday should be sunny.

Cowlshaw Here

Blood-Thrower Slips In and Out of House

David Cowlshaw, the man who threw blood on the floor of the House of Commons in Ottawa last August, paid a visit to the public galleries of the legislature Thursday.

When officials were made aware of his presence, two plainclothes policemen entered and sat on either side of him in the gallery. He left quietly after watching the debate on estimates for more than 90 minutes.

Mr. Cowlshaw was fined $25 and $50 damages on conviction for public mischief after throwing a container of blood onto the floor of the Commons to draw attention to a case of a man who, he claimed, received "a raw deal from bureaucracy."

The fiery former newspaper man later made quiet inquiries in the Press Gallery about whether the House might take up the case of suspended B.C. purchasing commissioner G. E. F. Jones. It did not.

'Rule by Exhaustion'

Legislators Weary

Premier Bennett was accused by Liberal leader Ray Perrault Thursday night of practising legislation by exhaustion.

Randolph Harding (NDP-Kaslo-Slocan) said the premier spent the evening sleeping while the rest of the House wrangled over Health Minister Martin's salary estimates.

Mr. Bennett, who left the House shortly after the night sitting began 8:30 p.m. and returned about 10:45 p.m., said "That's a straight lie."

He later withdrew the statement and rephrased it "a complete falsehood."

Opposition members tried on several occasions to get an early adjournment. They argued that members of the forestry committee, including government MLAs, had been sitting for 13½ hours, starting at 9:30 a.m.

But it was 12:05 a.m. before the premier moved adjournment. Mr. Martin still did not have his salary vote approved. The House sits again at 2 p.m. today.

$1,500,000 Vessel Can Carry 75

This Summer: Hydrofoil to Seattle

By DON GAIN

A $1,500,000 hydrofoil vessel will inaugurate regular passenger service between Victoria and Seattle this summer.

This is the word from North-west Hydrofoil Lines Inc., of Seattle. Mrs. Lillian I. Niedermair, wife of the company's president, gave The Daily Colonist the information Thursday from her home on Bainbridge Island.

"We expect to start operation in June or July," she said. "There will be three or four round trips in daylight hours. The fare will be close to the airline fare."

This will be the second hydrofoil planned for use in local

Civilian Assists In Car Chase

A Victoria constable commandeered a passing car Thursday to chase down another car stolen earlier on Fort Street near Broad.

Const. Frank Grivel, walking his beat, jumped into a car driven by David Owens, 1271 Fort Street, and followed a car to Pandora Avenue, where it was pulled over and the two occupants were arrested.

The stolen car was owned by William Pogson, 1 Cook Street.

'Cool Reception'

Varsity Paper 'Too Rich' For Schools

By JUDITH BAINES

Some Greater Victoria secondary schools have barred distribution of the University of Victoria newspaper, the Martlet.

'Extension Not Empire'

Any empire-building which may result from introduction of mini-metro would be at the local government level, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Thursday.

The minister said he would like Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay to remember this because "I'm not quite sure whether he realized the import of his remarks."

Reeve Cox was quoted earlier as expressing some concern over the possibility of empire-building in a joint service board set up for Greater Victoria.

A story in this week's edition of the Martlet reports a cool reception to a plan to distribute the newspaper to secondary schools in the Victoria district.

OPPOSED PLAN

One principal opposed the plan on the grounds that the Martlet "is a little too rich a diet for many of our young pupils."

Object of the proposal was to provide a closer liaison between the high schools and the university and to aid in pre-university orientation.

RISQUE MATERIAL

Robert Huddleston, principal of Mount View High, said that the "risque material" in the Martlet outweighs the advantages of bringing it to the school.

Peter Bower, director of publications on the student council, commented: "The Martlet doesn't sensationalize sex, which is probably the schools' big worry. Anyway if high school students want to read about sex there are sources other than the Martlet."

'UNDESIRABLE'

The Martlet reports that J. G. Wallace, principal of Oak Bay High, turned down the plan because many of its articles are "undesirable" for exposure to high school students.

The Victoria High school administration is reported to have refused the idea on similar grounds.

COULDN'T UNDERSTAND

Mr. Bower said he couldn't understand the negative reaction to the proposal, calling the Martlet "just about the most conservative university newspaper in Canada."

"If they are worried about the students reading radical political views, there is, unfortunately, very little of this sort of thing in the Martlet."

PREPARE STUDENTS

"However, if there were," he added, "the schools should be preparing students' minds to meet and evaluate such ideas rationally, not keeping the ideas from the students."

City Firm Wins Tender Award

Gorge Road hospital officials have awarded the tender for a physical medicine treatment wing to E. J. Hunter and Sons, 2306 Cranmore.

The award is subject to approval by the provincial health minister.

The low bid was $195,475. Only other tender submitted, from Farmer Construction, was $199,810.

If there is rapid approval from the health minister, officials hope the wing will be finished and in operation by October.

Over Private Hospitals

More Control Asked For Health Board

Senior health officials want the Metropolitan Board of Health to have more control over policy and operation of private hospitals and boarding homes in Greater Victoria.

A report recommending more control in this field will be presented to Metro health board Tuesday by health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

HEADED TEAM

He recently headed a team including sanitation, nursing and welfare officials which inspected all of the district's 18 private nursing hospitals and 90 boarding homes.

Nursing homes are now controlled by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, boarding homes are licensed under the Welfare Licensed Institution Act.

AFTER REPORT

"We hope this supervision will be put into effect after the report is presented," commented Dr. Whitbread.

The inspection team investigated all aspects of care and service in nursing hospitals and boarding homes.

"We looked into the type of building used, care of guests, type of guests they had, meals served, and so on," Dr. Whitbread explained.

After presentation of the report, health officials hope Metro health board will also take on responsibility for increased control over rehabilitative care.

MAXIMUM ENJOYMENT

He said this rehabilitative care would not be confined to preparing guests and patients for return to jobs.

"It should be aimed at giving them maximum enjoyment out of life," said Dr. Whitbread.

He said some of the patients are elderly, and do not intend to return to employment.

Close Watch Urged By Reeve

Expansion of responsibilities and services of Metropolitan Board of Health must be "closely watched," according to Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox.

The reeve told Oak Bay ratepayers Wednesday there is a danger the board may undertake duties which should be financed by the provincial government, and by the municipalities.

He gave hospitals as a field in which the provincial government should be accepting more responsibility.

"We will watch this controversial expansion of the board's operation carefully," said Reeve Cox.

Rehabilitative care would provide maximum benefit in the remaining years of these patients.

Dr. Whitbread said hospital location had "nothing to do with the board."

Dr. Harold Carter, a councillor in Oak Bay, recently said advice and guidance on hospital location would be a future concern of the board.

JOINT SERVICES

"That would be the concern of the joint-services board proposed last year," Dr. Whitbread commented.

Reeve Gordon Lee of Central Saanich, chairman of the board, said location of hospitals "would not come under our jurisdiction."

CHANGE SOUGHT

Dr. Carter proposed the constitution of the board be changed to allow a member of the Victoria Medical Society to sit on the board.

The idea was accepted by Oak Bay council, which will ask other municipalities to agree to a change in the constitution.

ELECTED MEMBERS

However, Dr. Whitbread said Section 56 of the Health Act implies members of the board must be representatives of municipalities or the school board.

"The board is made up of elected representatives from these areas," said the health officer, "after all, we are servants of the public."

TWO ALREADY ON

Dr. Whitbread pointed out two practising physicians are already on the board as representatives from municipalities or school boards.

"Dr. T. L. Jamieson of Gonzales and Dr. Carter from Oak Bay are now on the board," he said.

He urged the minister to judge the needs of the area "on merits" and pointed out that Rest Haven has bed utilization of 8 per cent.

Mr. Martin said he asked for a bed utilization survey of five Greater Victoria hospitals about nine months ago and still has not been able to get all the information needed. The purpose was to find out if all existing beds are being properly used he said.

SCHOOL FOR RETARDED

The minister promised, however, that his department would "lend every assistance to Rest Haven to enable them to replace the present building."

Mr. Tisdalle asked when construction of the proposed 600-bed school for retarded children at Royal Oak would begin and was told by the minister that the answer would have to come later from Works Minister Chant.

'Incompetence' Charged

Martin Under Fire

Health Minister Martin was accused of being "incompetent" Thursday in one of the most heated exchanges of the legislature this session.

Dr. Pat McGeer (L-Vancouver-Point Grey) made the accusation while blaming the minister for not providing adequate chronic-care facilities in the province.

The doctor said a lack of leadership over the past 12 years has led to pressure building up on acute and emergency beds.

RANGE FIST

"The minister is incompetent," Dr. McGeer shouted while banging his fist on the table. Committee of supply chairman William Speare told Dr. McGeer the House is discussing estimates and this is "not the time for long speeches."

Fernie Liberal Harry McKay rose to point out the House is discussing the minister's salary and had a perfect right to determine if the minister is worthy of his salary.

Recreation Minister Kiernan leaped to his feet to suggest Dr. McGeer's remarks were tedious and repetitious, adding that he had used the same words four times.

"And you still don't understand it," shouted Gordon Gibson (L-North Vancouver).

Dr. McGeer said lack of chronic facilities has created a shortage of acute beds.

'SPILL OVER'

"Because of a shortage of acute beds people spill over to emergency," the doctor said.

"This is the only device the doctors have. Fifty per cent of the emergency beds are medical cases."

Mr. Martin said the province has never enjoyed so much hospital action as right now, outlining 10 projects under construction and 44 new hospitals or major additions in the preparation stages.

Later John Squire (NDP-Alberni) told Mr. Martin to "quit politicking and stick to the facts and you'd stay out of trouble."

He accused Dr. McGeer of not knowing the facts and said he isn't "a Milquetoast—if you don't substantiate your charges you're going to get it in the neck."

Bride's Cousin Sends Gown from England

St. John's Church was the setting for the pretty ceremony uniting in marriage Christina Alice Pyle and Mr. David Thomas Farndon.

Canon George Biddle officiated at the wedding for the daughter of Mr. W. L. Pyle and Mrs. George Payette and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Farndon, all of Victoria.

Mr. Kenneth Adair was organist and Miss Frances Scott, soloist, sang The Wedding Prayer during the ceremony.

In keeping with the old tradition of "something borrowed" the bride wore her cousin's exquisite floor-length bridal gown of white satin brocade. The gown, which was sent out from England for the occasion, was fashioned with a fitted princess-style bodice and bouffant skirt which fell into a slight train. For jewelry she wore a silver cross and chain, gift of her grandfather, Mr. Charles Mumby of England, and a silver bracelet, gift of the groom. Her chapel length veil fell from a crown of crystals and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis. Mr. Payette gave his step-daughter in marriage.

Short style gowns in deep blue crystal taffeta were worn by Miss Margaret Reynolds, maid of honor, Mrs. Lynn Randall, bridesmaid and Miss Claudia Sharpe, bridesmaid. They carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Janice Malenon, groom's niece, as flower girl, was in a pale blue frock styled after the senior attendant's ensembles and carried a basket of pink carnations. They all wore gold heart-shaped lockets, gift of the bride.

Mr. Bob Randall was best man. Ushering guests to their seats were Mr. Barry Pyle, bride's brother, Mr. Jack McLeman and Mr. Bob Workman.

Mr. Jack Edwards proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed in Ches Marcel. For her going-away outfit the

Mr. G. L. Landon, director of extension for the B.C. Department of Agriculture, was presented with an honorary life membership in the Saanich 4-H Home Arts Club at a recent social evening at Experimental Farm pavilion.

Mr. Landon, who is past president of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, was also presented with an engraved desk clock and writing pad. Congratulatory messages were presented to Mrs. Landon and to Miss Rosemary Meadows, home economist in the B.C. Department of Agriculture, on her first visit to the club.

Miss Chris Andrews and Miss Selma Kelly, both senior members, received gifts on the occasion of their birthdays.

AMY

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: When I read the letter about Myrtle, who couldn't recognize the apple pie in the cafeteria, it stirred up memories that had been tucked in the back of my mind for 25 years.

In the orphanage where I grew up we used to say, "You can tell when it's apple pie because it tastes like glue. The peach pie tastes like soap."

To this day I can't stand either one.—J.G.

Dear J.G.: I love pie—any kind—and I have made it my business to learn where to get the best.

The finest cherry pies in the world are baked in Traverse City, Mich. Lexington, Ky., has the best pecan pies; Billings, Mont., specializes in banana cream. In Rochester, N.Y., I was served the most delicious lemon pie I ever ate. The yummiest chocolate pies are put together right here in Chicago. Ditto, coconut cream.

Yes, I have pie, but I can't make a decent pie to save my life. My crusts are positively bullet proof! If any of you gals have a sure-fire pie-crust recipe please send it on.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl who is worried sick about my 18-year-old brother.

Chuck started to date this girl who said she was 17. When he found out she was only 15 he was shocked, but he kept going with her. The girl's parents are divorced and her mother works nights so nobody is home to check on her. She can (and does) go out every night of the week, and she can entertain Chuck as late as she wants.

My brother has a good job

I'm worried sick that this girl will hook Chuck, if you know what I mean. He resents it when anyone tries to tell him anything, especially his kid sister, so I am hoping you will print my letter. Chuck reads your column every day and he says you are with it.—LITTLE SIS

Dear Sis: Nobody can hook your brother, but he could hook himself. I don't think Chuck is with it—or he would have stopped seeing the girl when he learned her age. When I was a teen-ager they called 15-year-olds "San Quentin quail."

Let's hope Chuck wakes up and smells the coffee before the pot boils over.

Former Minister In Quebec Court

ST. JEAN, Que. (UPI)—Former federal cabinet minister Yvon Dupuis was arraigned in court without plea Thursday on charges of influence peddling.

The case was adjourned until March 12 by Judge Andre Regnier. He is to rule on a motion by defence counsel Raymond Daoust calling for more precise charges against the burly Liberal member of Parliament (St. Jean-Bererville-Naperville).

The three-count complaint states that the 38-year-old Mr. Dupuis used his influence as an MP to obtain $10,000 for the issue of a race-track franchise in his home riding during the first half of 1961.

FLASHY CAR

Mr. Dupuis, a firebrand type of politician, faces more than 15 years possible imprisonment.

Hundreds of curious in this town 12 miles south of Montreal stood outside the two-storey courthouse for hours, waiting for a glimpse of the man who represents them.

They pushed and shoved their way into the court when Mr. Dupuis arrived with his lawyers in a flashy white convertible.

"MORE DETAILS"

After the charges were read, Mr. Daoust asked for more details including names, dates and places. The crown accuses Mr. Dupuis of conspiring during the first six months of 1961 in Ottawa, Montreal and other cities in Quebec.

The complaint named Roch Deshauteurs, A St. Jean chiropractor and "other persons" as co-conspirators.

Mr. Daoust said the complaint was too vague and prejudiced his defense of Mr. Dupuis.

Inspectors Favor Pact

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lumber inspectors voted 75 per cent in favor of a settlement in their dispute with the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau, it was announced Wednesday.

The bureau earlier accepted the settlement, which called for a 40-cent hourly wage increase over two years.

The inspectors are members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

Crown attorney Jacques Ducros, Quebec's assistant deputy attorney-general, argued that certain witnesses "refused to answer questions" during a police investigation, limiting the extent of the crown's dossier. He said the charges were purposely vague so "persons who categorically refused to answer police will answer you (Judge Regnier)."

The court came up with names of others who committed illegal acts, Mr. Ducros said. He insisted that Mr. Dupuis had enough details in the charges to enter a plea.

Judge Regnier will hand down a ruling here March 30.

Mr. Dupuis, a former minister without portfolio, was fired by Prime Minister Pearson on Jan. 22 but no explanation was given.

Compare the age, plainly marked on each bottle of Wiser's whisky with any other brands in their price classes. You will find, on the average Wiser's whiskies are older. And "older" to Wiser's means aged in wood... and "married" in wood—a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending for a further period of quiet aging. So for the best whiskies, the best value—drink one that's OLDER and WISER'S.

Still Time to See Yeats Exhibition

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

Attendance at the exhibition The World of William Butler Yeats, now in its second week at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, has been low, due chiefly to bad weather conditions, but there is still time to pay it a visit before it closes on March 14.

The amount of work put into this show has been tremendous. Professors Ann Sadlemeyer and Robin Skelton of the English department of the University of Victoria have provided the greater part of the exhibits of books, paintings and graphics. The rest is on loan from the leading galleries of Canada, Great Britain and Ireland and the United States.

But the bulk of the work of arranging the loans and hanging this very large show was done by our director, the Gallery being closed for the best part of a week to allow this to be completed.

The work of William Blake predominates, drawings and paintings, books and prose and verse, some of which he wrote, printed and illuminated and some he found by hand are now rare and valuable possessions, eagerly sought for by collectors.

As an engraver he was thoroughly competent having served seven years as an apprentice, and later making his living as an illustrator of literary texts.

The story goes that he married when he was 25 an illiterate girl whom he taught to read and write, to use color and see visions. He was himself a visionary, teeming with mythical dreams. He regarded art as a medium for visionary truth. He used no models for his figures, he had no formula, his sense of harmony was instinctive.

But Samuel Palmer, though less imaginative, has always seemed to me to be the better artist. He did not belong to the puritanical aestheticism of his age, he was closer to the earth.

If we study Palmer's The Weary Ploughman an etching of power and his Opening the Fold you will see what I mean.

Burne-Jones, another of the Victorian age painters, created what one might call a new type of feminine beauty, unreal but highly decorative. He became one of the giants of the period.

As well as the large water-color, there are two pencil drawings by him in the collection pleasant but not powerful. He was an idealist and exerted a strong influence over Yeats.

Then there are the drawings by Augustus John masterly in their command of line and a pencil drawing of Yeats by William Rothenstein, competent but not particularly interesting.

A colorful and strongly styled illustration The Three Princesses, reminiscent of Persian painting by Edmund Dulac is a delight for its technique and color.

Gordon Craig's stage sets ushered in a new concept of theatre design. Some interesting sketches for them are included in the collection.

Wrong Man Victim of Racial Terror

NORTH HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Three youths accused of waging a campaign of terror against a family they believed was racially mixed had never even met the man they thought was a Negro, police say.

The 16-year-old boys, who called themselves the Confederation of Connecticut Clansmen, were arrested Wednesday night.

Nearly 400,000 persons of all ages and from all walks of life participated in Canadian Red Cross water safety services and projects last year.

Police said Eugene Teixeira, 28, the husband, is of Portuguese-Italian descent and his wife of French and Italian extraction. The couple has two young children.

During the past month, the family has received threatening telephone calls and one abusive letter, police said.

Monday night, a .22-caliber rifle was fired at the family's home, police said.

Teen-Size Shrubs

By M. V. CHESNUT, FERN

For several days now we have been discussing a labor-saving bed of deciduous flowering shrubs—a border which, planted along the property line, can serve not only as an ornamental feature, but to ensure privacy. Yesterday I named and described a few of the taller shrubs suitable for the back of the border, mostly kinds which will thrive even in the hands of inexperienced gardeners; today I think we might consider some of the medium-tall kinds, in the four to seven-foot range.

A grand shrub and an old favorite of mine is Kerria japonica, sometimes sold under the nickname Jew's Mallow; I have never succeeded in tracing the derivation of this name. Standing six feet tall when fully grown and with a spread of five feet, it has shiny green foliage and covers itself in April and May with large buttercup-shaped golden yellow blossoms, and the stems are a vivid green color, remaining attractive all winter.

There is a double-flowered form of Kerria, with yellow blossoms rather like those of the old-fashioned Golden Glow, but it is a gangling, leggy bush with smaller leaves and, to my mind, nothing like as attractive as the single-flowered plant. Kerria will thrive in almost any kind of soil and is as hardy as a Russian thistle.

To provide color in late summer and early fall, I suggest the Lacecap hydrangea "Blue Wave." This one grows to five or six feet tall and about the same spread, although it stands pruning well and can be maintained in a slimmer shape. Blooming in August and September, the blossoms are unusual and most attractive, with fertile florets in the middle of the truss and ray florets around the edge, giving a delightfully lacy effect. Color ranges from pink to a clear gentian blue, depending upon the acidity of the soil, and unlike most other hydrangeas, the blossoms are sweetly fragrant.

the middle rows of our shrub border. One of the most appealing, to my way of thinking, is an ancient Bourbon rose called Zephirine Drouhin, growing to six feet, without thorns, and bearing fragrant silvery pink blossoms from June until autumn.

Some other good shrub roses for this purpose are Sparshoop, a sweetbrier with very large light pink blossoms, Harrison's Yellow with semi-double blossoms, very early and sweetly fragrant, and Grootendorst Supreme, a Rugosa rose with deep red blossoms almost all summer long. Another old favorite of mine in the medium-tall class is Romneya coulteri, the California Bush Poppy, making a shrub about five feet tall by five across. This one is not fully hardy and is sometimes cut to the ground during an unusually severe winter, but it never fails to sprout from the roots and renew itself promptly. Romneya is a dramatic sight in full bloom, with huge, golden-centered white poppy flowers from July until fall, accented with the fragrance of old wine.

ART BUCHWALD Sorts Out Johnson's Mail

Red Letter Day for Mr. G

WASHINGTON — Last week, Russian Premier Nikolai S. Khrushchev said he was getting all my mail. Premier Khrushchev says he sent me an invitation to Moscow two months ago and the president never answered his letter. The same day, George Reedy, White House press secretary, who is known to Washington correspondents as Dr. No, denied President Johnson ever received a written invitation from the Russian premier.

A few weeks ago United Nations Secretary-General U Thant said he sent a peace plan for Viet Nam to the president. In this case Reedy also denied that President Johnson ever received such a plan.

The only thing that can be deduced from all this is that someone is fooling around with the president's mail. And if I were the president I'd be pretty mad about it.

"Get me the postmaster-general on the phone . . ."

office and it's not working very smoothly at the moment. It could take anywhere from a day to six months, depending on which computer is working."

"Gronowski, I want to ask you a question and I want a direct answer. Do you have a mail cover on me?"

"Pardon me, Mr. President?"

"I said, is your department checking my mail?"

"I am not at liberty to say, sir. We can't give out any names of the 24,000 people we've had mail covers on because innocent people could be hurt."

"Don't give me that, Gronowski. Are you watching my mail?"

"I can't say, sir."

"Why not?"

"I'm under an Executive Order not to reveal the names of any people whose mail we're watching."

"But I happened to sign the order. I AM the Executive."

Two Weeks to Decide

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—George Peppard and his favorite girl, Elizabeth Ashley, are enjoying two weeks in Hawaii and this could very well decide their future. When they return to the mainland, they face a separation of four months. George goes shortly to Africa to star with Stanley Baker in The Sands of Kalahari. Elizabeth goes to Hollywood to star with Sidney Poitier in Voice in the Wind. Question: Will Liz get a fast divorce in Mexico and marry George before he can take off? Or will she stick to her repeated statement that she's getting a California divorce from James Farentine, which takes a year to be final. Actually James may take the initiative. He wants to marry stage actress Michele Lee as soon as possible, and "soon" spells Mexico.

is the cue for the 30-year-old sex kitten to wed long-time beau, Bob Zagari. Mlle. Moreau goes about looking and and saying, "I think I could be a good wife, but I'm not the marrying kind." No one really believed she would marry French designer Pierre Cardin. But it made good copy while it lasted.

Laurence Harvey is in no hurry to marry anyone, not even his long-time lady, Mrs. Jean Cohn, wealthy widow of the late head of Columbia studio. But he is in a hurry to return to his palatial home in California. He arrives today after 24 hours in the Bahamas; don't ask me what for. Larry will star in four top TV shows in the next 10 weeks. But otherwise he will relax. He needs it after six murderously tough months in London's Camelot, which is not expected to run much longer now that King Arthur has returned to his own round table.

The Beatles were surprised almost into a haircut when Queen Mother Elizabeth just happened to be riding in her Rolls-Royce, smack on to their location in Nassau where they are now filming their second movie. Ringo's brand new wife, Maureen, by the way, remained in England. Not because of feared reprisals from Ringo's screaming teen-age fans. Merely because it was a short day's night for this part of the picture.

Don't hold your breath waiting for Carroll Baker's million-dollar lawsuit against Playboy to come into court. I understand there has been a settlement—no cash to be passed, just a pleasant piece about Miss Baker in an upcoming issue . . . to assuage her psyche.

The late Welsh poet Dylan Thomas wrote three movie scripts, and Richard Burton owns one of them, The Beach of Palos. The Burtons have been stating recently that they are not overly ambitious as far as movies are concerned and that one of these days they will both retire. "In fact, Elizabeth is now semi-retired," Richard told me. "She makes less than one picture a year." Sandy Dennis, who has been teasing for the younger woman in Whose Fear of Virginia Woolf? which stars Liz and Richard, will be wearing braces on her teeth for a new look for her new movie career.

The frug, swim, watusi and what-have-you set in Hollywood will be on skates this Saturday night, at the opening Saturday night of the Topanga Plaza centre ice rink, part of an enormous new shopping centre with a dozen movie name investors. Steve Allen will MC the event, and Santa Heals will don skates in public for the first time since I don't know when.

Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne Moreau are two French actresses who are usually non-co-operative with the press. But now making a picture together in Mexico, the temperamental prone-to-nudity stars are almost running to the reporters with interviews. The entire British and French press seem to be there and gathering stories while they may. Brig was saying, "No more marriages for me." Naturally this Constance Bennett, with her well known formula for youth, looks younger than Lana Turner who is years younger, in their picture, Madame X. And this should cause some piquant situations.

Mervyn Leroy paused from directing his Moment to Moment film to observe "If you X-rayed an Oscar, you would find an ulcer inside each one." This is ultra time in Hollywood.

Come Visit Memory Lane

With HAL BOYLE

Only memories can keep you young. The memory game is the world's greatest international sport. Everybody plays it. The past never dies, because all of us spend at least part of every day of our lives reliving it. And your own past may be longer than you'd care to brag about if you can remember when—

The neighbors always brought food to your house when someone in it was ill or had died.

Fatty Arbuckle, the 350-pound comedian, was making $5,000 a week in Hollywood before scandal clouded his name and fame.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy under 17 who went behind the barn and smoked cigarettes made of dry cornstarch and paper torn from a mail order catalogue.

Business executives were more afraid of developing an ulcer than getting a heart attack.

A father felt kind of crestfallen if his wife gave birth to a baby weighing less than eight pounds. The bigger the baby, the healthier it was supposed to be.

Everybody was expected to run away from home at least once before he got out of high school.

Few folks were afraid of a hobbs if he knocked on the back door and asked for something to eat. But he usually had to chop some kindling or beat a rug before he got fed.

Nine out of 10 men carried toothpicks and a change purse in their pockets.

No woman felt her role in this world was complete unless she fainted in public at least once in her lifetime.

The stock formula for bringing her to was to rub her wrists and hold perfumed smelling salts to her nose.

A well-bred lady always wore black stockings when she went swimming.

A thrifty fellow saw no reason for owning two pairs of spats because, after all, he could wear only one pair at a time.

Lard was used as a food, an ointment for chest colds and a hair pomade.

The motto of business was "The customer is always right."

Mariner Mumbles But Can Still See

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Mars-bound Mariner IV spacecraft is still headed toward its July 14 picture-taking date with the red planet, but it isn't communicating full data any more. Scientists disclosed Wednesday that failures have developed in two instruments aboard the speeding craft. But engineers, compensating for a resistor failure, have been able to interpret what one of the instruments is sending back. The trouble is not expected to interfere with the television camera designed to relay up to 21 pictures when the spacecraft flies within 5,400 miles of Mars in July.

... Dear Sir ...

"Once again, excuse us. Devotedly yours, Durocher-Rivard"

Rivard 'Clears' Guards

Dear Pen Pal...

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard, who says he engineered his escape from Bordeaux Jail without "inside or outside" help, continued Thursday to evade a mammoth police manhunt centred on Montreal's underworld. As has been the case ever since the accused narcotics conspirator fled the north - and prison Tuesday night, police reported plenty of tips, but no hard leads.

"We've checked out every piece of information we've received without uncovering anything definite," said one officer.

As the manhunt continued turning up dead ends in Montreal, the day's main development came from Quebec City.

There, to the laughter of the provincial legislature, Attorney-General Claude Wagner disclosed Rivard and fellow-fugitive Andre Durocher had written Albert Tanguay, governor of Bordeaux Jail. The letter sought to "enlighten" Mr. Tanguay on circumstances surrounding the bizarre break.

The two-page letter, handwritten in French and with a graceful writing style, was dated Montreal. It arrived at Mr. Tanguay's prison office Thursday morning in an envelope postmarked Montreal, 10 p.m. EST Wednesday—some 27 hours after the fugitives completed their break.

It was written in Rivard's hand, said Mr. Wagner and was signed, in the same hand, "A. Durocher L. Rivard."

Second Senate Look

BANK HOPES RISING AGAIN

By IAN STREET

Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett said a large bank with headquarters in Vancouver may become reality "at an earlier date than expected" as a result of the Senate's action Thursday.

He refused to say whether the provincial government would attempt to buy shares in this or any other chartered bank.

Without trying to anticipate the findings of the Senate banking and commerce committee, which will take a second look at the B.C. bank bill, the premier said he expected construction of the headquarters in Vancouver to begin this year.

VICTORIA OFFICE

There would be "an important office" of the bank opened in Victoria at the same time as the headquarters, Mr. Bennett said.

The premier wouldn't answer questions on whether the government intends to buy shares in the bank if the charter is granted by Ottawa.

But he reiterated that "the government has no intention at any time of directing the policies of any chartered bank."

FIRST STEP

"This is a first step," Mr. Bennett said when asked to comment on the Senate move to send the B.C. bill back to committee.

"I'm very pleased that the Senate as a whole has taken a constructive attitude. I do not want to anticipate what recommendation the committee will make, but I hope the B.C. bill will very shortly find its way into the Commons for consideration with the two other bank bills."

Attorney-General Bonner said the announcement by federal Finance Minister Walter Gordon that there is to be legislation barring provincial investment in chartered banks removes any known roadblock to Senate approval of the B.C. bill.

LARGEST IN HISTORY

Even without government participation, he said the proposed Bank of B.C. would probably be capitalized at $100,000,000 with reserves of $200,000,000 making it "the largest start-up bank in Canadian history."

"Public interest in this bank has exceeded our fondest expectations of a year ago," said Mr. Bonner. "A lot of people are thoroughly fed up with attempts to prevent investment in B.C."

The "most important thing" about the Senate's action Thursday, he said, is that it once more sets B.C. upon the road to creating a leading centre of Canadian finance in Vancouver.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Referring the bill back to committee will give the sponsors, and Premier Bennett, another chance to appear before the committee.

The vote was 21 to 11 to refer the bill.

Senator Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec) said the bill should be reconsidered in the light of Finance Minister Gordon's announcement that no provincial government would be allowed to hold shares in a chartered bank, under proposed amendments to the federal Bank Act.

WAIT SUGGESTED

Senator A. J. Brooks, leader of the Conservative opposition, said it would be discriminatory to hold up this banking bill in the Senate while passing others. Senator Gratton O'Leary (PC—Ontario) opposed the motion, suggesting the Senate first wait to see what the finance minister is going to do.

"The Rocky Mountains aren't going to collapse and the skies aren't going to fall on British Columbia if it doesn't get this bank right away," said Senator O'Leary.

Southern Ports Settle Strike

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 53-day strike of longshoremen in the South Atlantic District, last major holdout, was settled Thursday.

SPCA Says:

Farmers Face Charges

PENTICTON (CP) — Three Grand Forks farmers will be prosecuted if they abandon their pesticide-infected animals. Eric Berg, SPCA inspector and special constable, said here the society does not want to take such action but has no alternative.

Mr. Berg returned Thursday from an inspection trip at the ranches of Peter de Haan, Lee Hoodie and Rick DeVries. He said the ranchers are desperate and plan to abandon their ranches and the animals if help is not forthcoming.

CAN'T SELL

The ranchers were ordered by the federal Food and Drug Administration not to sell milk or meat from their cattle and pigs after officials found a high level of pesticides in the animals.

Mr. Berg said federal assistance "must come immediately" to the ranchers. In Grand Forks, Mr. Hoodie said he and the other farmers were aware of the possibility of prosecution.

"But we have no money to buy feed (for the cattle) so why stay here and watch the animals die?"

Pay Doctors Fat Salary MLA Urges

All B.C. doctors should be given standard salaries of about $25,000 a year, an NDP opposition member suggested in the legislature Thursday. William Bartley of Yale said it would be better to concentrate on preventive medicine rather than implement Medicare schemes involving only "sickness insurance."

He suggested doctors should be well paid and given a month to six weeks holiday each year. In addition, they should have time off with pay for post-graduate work.

Correspondent Reports:

South Vietnamese Seek Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — A National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Saigon reported Thursday night the South Vietnamese leaders are seeking a negotiated settlement with Communist forces in the north.

In a news broadcast, Robert Gorahski said:

"A top-ranking member of Premier Quai's government says the administration (South Vietnamese) is basically in accord with Gen. de Gaulle's position that the only way out is to sit down at the conference table with Communist North Vietnamese."

"The government is encouraging further air strikes against the north as a prelude to negotiations. This will place the south in a better bargaining position."

Worst in 30 Years

Mob Storms U.S. Embassy

MOSCOW (UPI) — A mob of about 2,000 Asian, African and Russian students broke through barricades and massed Russian police and soldiers Thursday and attacked the U.S. embassy with rocks, ink bottles, and slingshots.

It was the most violent demonstration seen in Moscow in 30 years.

At least five policemen were injured and scores of demonstrators were seen with blood streaming down their faces during the hand-to-hand fighting that raged in front of the embassy.

Less than an hour after police and soldiers had succeeded finally in driving off the screaming demonstrators, U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler called on Foreign Minister Gromyko to complain that the "protection afforded by Soviet authorities was grossly inadequate." But Kohler also praised the "valiant" efforts of unarmed Russian police and soldiers to fight off the howling demonstrators.

Shouting Match

Dorion Short-Circuits Hot-Tempered Lawyers

OTTAWA (CP) — Two lawyers erupted in a shouting match which stalled the Dorion inquiry briefly Thursday. A third lawyer was sternly dismissed from the witness box by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion.

Raymond Daoust, lawyer for escaped narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard, and Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservative party, had to be out-shouted by the judge before order was restored.

A few minutes later, Roland Blais, 30-year-old legal associate of Daoust, was cut short by Chief Justice Dorion who ordered him out of the witness box and accused Daoust's own counsel, Leo-Rene Maranda, of making a farce of his inquiry into allegations of attempted bribery and coercion by federal ministerial aides.

HAIR IN SOUP

The Daoust-Drouin bout arose when Mr. Drouin suggested the inquiry was being asked by Daoust at a late stage to hear new evidence "like a hair in the soup."

Daoust leaped from his chair at the counsel's table, shoved aside his own lawyer, Mr. Maranda, and furiously declared he wouldn't stand for any insinuations against him.

With both men shouting at once, Chief Justice Dorion overtopped their voices with an announcement.

Rat Catcher Not Pied Piper

HAMELIN, Germany (UPI) — Hamelin has hired its first rat catcher since the legendary Pied Piper. "Our rat catcher will not use a pipe," a police official said. A favorite fairy tale tells of the medieval rat catcher who, when refused payment for ridding Hamelin of its rat plague, lured the town's children away with his pipe.

"Our rat catcher uses chemical poisons," the police official said. "And please understand we do not have a rat plague like the story of old. We have no more and no less rats than any other city of our size."

He said a Hamburg firm signed an agreement to send six or seven specialists to Hamelin for a three-month killing campaign.

John D vs Balcer

Tory Rift Widens On Policy Matters

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservative party appears headed towards another crisis over policy differences between Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Quebec leader Leon Balcer.

Mr. Diefenbaker has indicated within the caucus, sources say, that the party should take a strong and prolonged stand against the government's proposed formula to permit provinces to take over certain well-established, shared-cost programs.

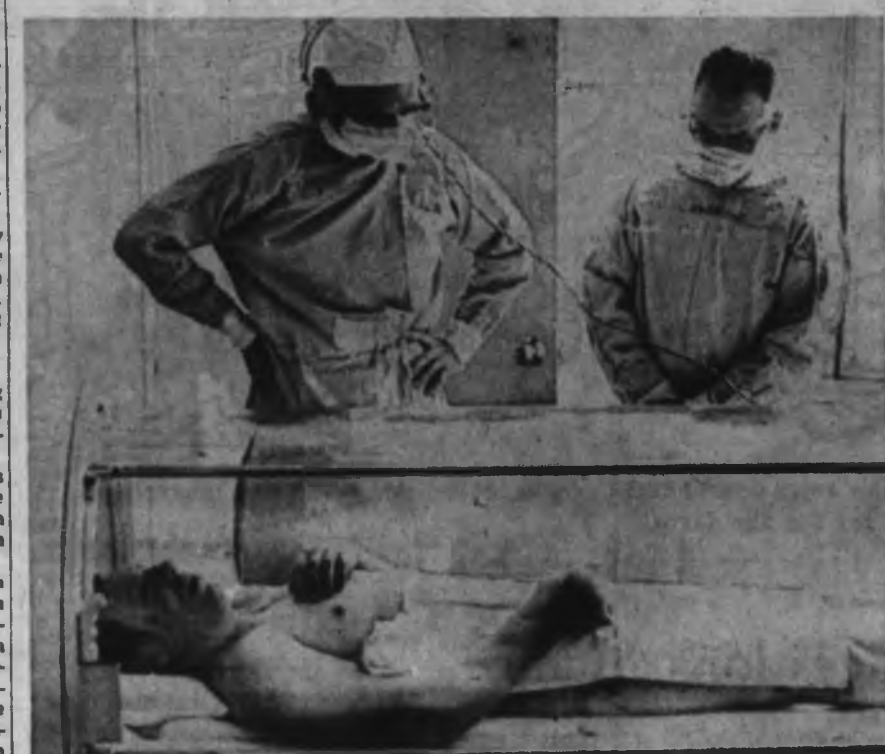

It is understood that Mr. Balcer, who has threatened before to quit the party over policy differences, is interpreting the recent caucus discussions as an ultimatum—either support Mr. Diefenbaker on the issue or get out.

The party has been meeting in caucus every morning this week and is to hold another session today.

The opting-out legislation is scheduled for debate in the Commons in the present session after the Canada Pension Plan bill is approved.

Sources say the anti-formula position has been enunciated in a paper prepared by Erik Nielsen, member for the Yukon Territory. The paper, apparently advocating strong opposition to the formula and to the proposed formula for an amending procedure to the British North America Act, not expected to be debated until this fall at least.

Informants say there were no ultimatums to the Quebec wing, but that Mr. Balcer and others are interpreting it as such.

Tough Guy Gone Gentle

If Rivard Is Scared He's Hiding It Well

By DAVE STOCKAND

MONTREAL (CP)—If Lucien Rivard is running scared, nobody is likely to know it.

In his astounding escape Tuesday from Bordeaux Jail and since he has shown traits which his acquaintances did not normally associate with him—kindness and consideration. He was generally known as a "tough" customer.

COCK-OF-THE-WALK
Montreal police consider he has been the cock-of-the-walk in the Montreal underworld for some time, but how he got there was a matter of surprise.

APPEARS CHANGED
As he made good his escape, Rivard appeared to be a changed character.

When he and escape-companion Andre Durocher commandeered a car from a passing motorist, Rivard gave the driver $5 for taxi fare home and then called him to tell him where the car had been abandoned.

GO EASY ON GUARDS
Later he sent a letter, postmarked Montreal, to Bordeaux Governor Albert Tanguay asking him to go easy on the guards because none aided in the escape—"We did not ask their assistance because we had no confidence in them."

His letter contained touches of humor, an apology for the trouble he was causing, a declaration of innocence and a statement if he was lucky he would be far away by the time the letter reached the governor.

KINGPIN CONSPIRATOR
None of his humor brushed off on the files Montreal police have on the 40-year-old Rivard—or on the U.S. federal grand jury indictment accusing him of being a kingpin conspirator in a multi-million-dollar narcotics smuggling racket.

U.S. law-enforcement agencies say he prospered on the trafficking of narcotics in a drug career they believe goes back to the 1940s.

'LEGITIMATE' OPERATOR
By his own description, he was a resort operator with interests in a number of other "legitimate" enterprises. In the role of a sound businessman he could be absolutely convincing.

A huge narcotics seizure made last year at the U.S.-Mexico border spelled trouble for Rivard. The arrested man, another Montrealer, blew the whistle on Rivard as the mastermind of a narcotics smuggling conspiracy.

Rivard was arrested in Montreal at the request of American authorities acting on an indictment dated last May 17 which alleged Rivard from time to time "would acquire and make arrangements to acquire heroin at various places outside the U.S., including Canada and Mexico."

Then, while Rivard was fighting efforts to have him extradited, the root fell in.

Opposition charges were made in Parliament a bribe was offered to expedite Rivard's release on bail—bail was never granted—and the allegations led to the setting up of the now-famous Dorion inquiry.

'I AM INNOCENT'
In his letter to the Bordeaux Jail governor, Rivard denied the charges against him in Texas—"... I am innocent."

There was testimony at Rivard's bitterly fought extradition hearings that he had bank accounts in Switzerland and other countries—one of the reasons bail was opposed so strenuously.

He is known to have good contacts in Mexico. For a time he was a hotel operator in Cuba but was tossed out with the other North American casino operators when Castro came to power.

His escape came while the appeal court was still considering a second application for his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

GERMANS FIRM: No Aid
BONN (UPI)—West Germany said Thursday its ban on aid to the United Arab Republic was "a closed matter," but that a similar cutoff in assistance to Tanzania would be reviewed.

Tanzania is the African nation formed by the merger of Tanganyika and Zanzibar.

The announcement came after the first cabinet meeting since Egypt and Tanzania began closer relations with Communist East Germany.

In Cairo, the Egyptian government said it had arrested a "network of German terrorists" directed against West German scientists working on jet and rocket projects for the United Arab Republic.

ARMED AND DANGEROUS
The arrested man, another Montrealer, blew the whistle on Rivard as the mastermind of a narcotics smuggling conspiracy.

Arms Sales Renewed

PARIS (UPI)—France has quietly resumed arms sales to Arab countries after 10 years. French government sources said Thursday.

They stressed that France would continue its long-term program of providing a large part of Israel's arms.

Rebelling Kurds have set up the independent state of Kurdistan in northeast Iraq and are preparing for attacks by Iraqi government forces in the spring, a spokesman said Thursday.

The 2,000,000 Kurds, under the leadership of Mustafa el Barzani, have been demanding autonomy and struggling with central government troops for four years.

TRUCE BROKEN
Ismet Sherif Vanly, personal representative for Barzani, said a cease-fire has been broken, and charged the central government at Baghdad with stalling on holding negotiations for Kurdish self-rule.

The rebels have set up their own state, Vanly said, with independent judicial, customs, fiscal and military organizations.

MORE ASSAULTS
When the weather improves enough to allow stepped-up military operations, the Kurds expect intensified government assaults against the independence movement, he said.

Vanly charged that government troops had attacked Kurd installations with artillery, airplanes and tanks in the past few months in violation of the cease-fire.

"We have vainly awaited negotiations with the Baghdad government to establish Kurdish autonomy," he said, "but nothing has been done."

The Baghdad government considers that the Kurdish problem was solved with the conclusion of a cease-fire, while we consider the real negotiations still must take place."

Rare Type

Blood Found

MONTREAL (CP)—Doctors will be able to go ahead with an operation to save the legs of a 41-year-old laborer because supplies of his rare blood type arrived Thursday in Montreal from widely separated United States cities.

A continent-wide search for Norbert Huard's rare "A" RH negative Vei blood type was instigated by the Montreal Red Cross to aid in the delicate operation of grafting arteries.

No Canadian donors with the right type of blood were found so the American Red Cross undertook the search.

Files of rare donors showed only 10 persons in the United States who met the qualifications. Telephone calls reached donors Mr. Portland, Ore., Charlotte, N.C., Casper, Wyo., and San Mateo, Calif.

A fifth donor is standing by in Sacramento, Calif. Mr. Huard is the father of three children, aged 15, 17 and 20.

Quake Rocks Isle of Jersey

ST. HELIER, Isle of Jersey (UPI)—A 40-second earthquake struck this English Channel island Thursday, badly damaging a pier and rattling homes and office buildings.

Seconds after the quake stopped, a 30-foot section of a granite pier collapsed into the sea, carrying away a 20-foot unmanned lighthouse. No injuries were reported.

Merchants Want Old Hours

NANAIMO—A group of Nanaimo retail merchants have formed an organization aimed at adhering to present shopping hours despite city council's rescinding a limited hours bylaw.

Two Men Jailed In Theft

NANAIMO — A 21-year-old man was sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indeterminate for his part in the robbery of a coin laundry at Parksville, and possession of burglary tools.

Michael John Lloyd pleaded guilty to the charge. Charged with the same offences was 20-year-old Ewart Frederick Arthur La Riviere who was sentenced to one year definite, 18 months indeterminate at Oakalla prison farm.

RETURN TO COURT

Magistrate Eric Winch recommended a transfer to Hanes Correctional Institute for both men. The pair will appear in magistrate's court again today for sentencing on 19 charges ranging from theft over $50 to theft from coin laundries. The charges were laid in Duncan, Chemainus, Ladysmith and Nanaimo.

John William McKellar, 33, Terminal Hotel, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving laid Feb. 24 and was sentenced to 21 days at Oakalla. It was his second conviction on the same offence.

For Theft

Alberni Men Jailed

PORT ALBERNI—Three persons were charged and two of them sent to jail at Alberni police court by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod for theft over $50.

They were Gordon Armstrong, sentenced to one year; John Byers, two months; and Victor Strick, who received an 18-month suspended sentence.

The charges involved theft of equipment from the Franklin River division of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Company Ltd. Edwin Wong, also before the Alberni court Wednesday was fined $75 on a theft charge at less than $50.

Ladysmith Student Ranks High

A Ladysmith pharmacy student has been named among the top students at the University of British Columbia.

Brian Douglas Grant, of Victoria Crescent, was named among 32 outstanding students in 16 courses. Two are picked from each course.

The academic achievement awards will be presented at a ceremony on the UBC campus March 18. It is held annually as part of Education Week, March 7 to 14.

Haig Burns, chairman of the group formed Thursday, said there will be "colossal confusion" now that merchants are legally able to keep stores open six days a week, 24 hours a day.

"The whole thing is going to be in a mess," he said.

HOPE FOR ORDER

"We hope we can bring some kind of orderly system to prevail in the matter of shop closing hours."

Mr. Burns said a general meeting of the new group will be held March 16.

He said they hope to come to agreement on keeping the early hours and days-open one night and closed Wednesday afternoon—as before the bylaw was thrown out.

AGREEMENT

Earlier this week Eaton's department-store manager, Floyd Warner, said his store would open six days a week and one night "regardless of what the other stores do."

Mr. Warner said he and several other retailers are drafting a "gentlemen's agreement" on store closing hours.

Other members of the executive are: Allan Fletcher, vice-chairman; Ernie Harding, secretary-treasurer; Sam Campbell, Don Moorhouse, James Quinn, Stan Dakin and Norm Graham, directors.

He said he expected discussions with Chamber officials in the near future and "that both organizations will do whatever is best for the city of Nanaimo."

MAJORITY RULE

Mr. Burns emphasized that members of the IRA must hold retail business licences and must be willing to abide by the wishes of the majority. "If not, don't join," he said.

Memberships in the IRA are being sold for $1 and are good for one year. A committee is at work drawing up a set of by-laws to be presented at the general meeting.

MR. BURNS said "I feel that from out of the shambles of all this open-hours shopping controversy the independent retailer in Nanaimo will emerge stronger and more united than at any time in the city's history."

"We want to work with the Chamber of Commerce. We did not form this new organization in preference to joining the Chamber of Commerce because they failed to take a stand on the open hours issue."

MR. BURNS said "I feel that from out of the shambles of all this open-hours shopping controversy the independent retailer in Nanaimo will emerge stronger and more united than at any time in the city's history."

"Rather, it was formed because the retailers feel they must take a stand on matters that relate to the retail trade and that the executive of the Chamber which represents both sides of many contentious questions finds itself in a position where it cannot take sides or make a stand or allow one of its committees to do so."

Nanaimo Man's Invention

Boom Boat Points To New Industry

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — A master mechanic working with two assistants nights and Saturdays has developed a new type of boom boat that may be the beginning of a new secondary industry for Nanaimo.

S. J. Harris was provided with a building at M. G. Zorkin's Metro Mart industrial development on the highway ten miles north of Nanaimo. Using rented machinery he developed a new type boom boat that he says has 13 advantages over the ones in use on the coast now.

The small, sturdy steel boats are used in the logging industry to shove logs into booms. They are 16 or 18 feet long and work on the principle of a bulldozer.

The engine is in the centre, with the propeller and rudder in the stern.

Mr. Harris' boat differs from those in use in that there are two propellers and steering apparatus in the centre of the boat allowing it to move either ahead or back directly without having to make a complete circle. It is similar in operation to a car except that it can also move sideways.

A new type of steel has been used in its construction, thinner yet tougher than ordinary steel. Because the steel is light in weight, the boat sits higher in the water and is able to manoeuvre in shallower waters.

It affords twice the visibility of an ordinary boom boat and a man can either sit or stand to operate it. A special attachment, also developed by Mr. Harris, allows the boat to single out one log without breaking up the boom as is necessary now.

ENGINE NEXT

Mr. Harris completed the boat in four weeks and will be installing the engine this month. Trial runs will take place at the end of the month.

Mildred Zorkin, who helped Mr. Harris get established, said, "This was started by the initiative of one man, Mr. Harris. The best hope for our future is to give the talent in our midst the opportunity to emerge. By encouraging the talented individual to create and sell directly we encourage the growth of secondary industry."

Cowichan Hospital

Ratepayers May Face Bigger Bill

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Ratepayers in Duncan may wake up this morning facing an additional $70,000 tab for their share of additional costs to a $3,500,000 hospital that will cost nearly $4,000,000 to build.

City council was to have made a decision on the community's stand on the additional costs for the proposed Cowichan District Hospital.

Mayor Jack Dobson and aldermen were tight-lipped over the issue before the meeting but there seemed little doubt Duncan residents would be asked to shoulder a share of the additional financial load of $800,000 caused by unexpectedly high bids on the long-awaited hospital.

TENDERS HIGH

News of the additional cost was announced Wednesday night by Cowichan Hospital District Association chairman Claude Green, following the opening of five tenders from Vancouver firms last Friday.

All tenders were considerably higher than the amount voted in the four hospital districts. Areas involved are the Koksilah and Cowichan Lake hospital improvement districts, the city of Duncan and the North Cowichan municipality except for the Chemainus area.

LOW, HIGH

Lowest tender for the multi-million-dollar hospital came from Smith Bros. and Wilson Ltd. and was $3,980,000. Highest bid submitted, by Burns and Dutton (1962) Ltd., was $4,192,000.

Also sharing in the hospital cost are the provincial and federal governments, but the additional cost of $800,000 has to be borne by the districts here.

Said Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan Thursday: "I am certain we have to go forward and must raise the money because costs are getting higher all the time."

INCREASE EXPECTED

The mayor said the increase was to be expected since the hospital money bylaw was put before the people some years ago. He said the city probably would raise its share of the additional cost by bylaw.

Reeve Donald Morion of North Cowichan indicated at Wednesday council meeting a similar bylaw will be put before the people in that part of the municipality concerned with the new hospital.

NO DIFFICULTY

Laurey Bailey of the Cowichan Lake hospital improvement district said, "As far as our district is concerned we will be able to raise the money."

Public meetings will be held to explain to taxpayers the reasons for the additional cost. Spokesman for the Koksilah hospital improvement district, Charles Meredith, said, "We are not anticipating any difficulty in providing additional funds."

Driver Fined, Banned

COURTENAY—A driver who was convicted of failing to signal a turn was fined $30 and banned from the road for 90 days in magistrate's court in spite of a claim that he is a good driver.

Robert Gordon Titus was called "a dangerous young man" by Magistrate John Ryland after the convicted man's driving record was read to the court.

It included speeding convictions during the past three years in Nanaimo, Qualicum, Vancouver and Colwood and failing to stop for a stop sign in 1959.

Jaycees of Duncan To Study Governments

DUNCAN—Jaycees here will attend the city council meeting Monday and next week will travel to Victoria to attend a night session of the provincial Legislature.

Duncan Jaycee president George Schmidt said both occasions will help his members study governments in action.

Remanded for Plea

Five Men in Court On Assault Charge

COURTENAY—Five Campbell River men appeared in police court Tuesday before Magistrate John Ryland on charges of indecent assault on two teenage girls. A sixth man is being sought.

The men, ranging in age from 18 to 24 years, were Barry Gunnar Nelson, 24; Charles Edward Russell, 21; James Michael McBeigh, 24; Richard Lawrence Chelkrite and Donald Breddon, both 21.

The alleged offences took place between Courtney and Cornox in the early hours of March 1.

No plea was taken and they were remanded to Monday, March 8. Bail of $500 was set for each.

Kenneth Doty pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $30. His driver's licence was suspended for 30 days.

Doty lost control of his car Feb. 24 on the Cumberland-Rosston road when he applied his brakes. The car careened across road three times, finally coming to a stop facing the opposite direction.

There was about $300 damage to the car but its occupants were not injured.

Lewis Darrel Hammah entered a plea of not guilty to an impaired driving charge and was remanded until March 5.

Original Play Wins Praise At Festival

DUNCAN — The play A Totem for Noot-Ches written by Mrs. F. Radd of Cowichan Bay, was praised by mainland adjudicator Mrs. Lisa Broughton Wednesday night during a one-week Cowichan schools' drama festival.

The play, presented by students of the Tanager Elementary School, was directed by Mrs. J. M. Roome. Mrs. Broughton said A Totem for Noot-Ches is written in the simple language of legends and fairy tales and it was acted and directed in the same straightforward manner.

She said the cast, masks and properties were "a credit to the Cowichan area." Special mention went to Reginald Leblanc and Dan Kinney for portraying characters Ulatilla and Tautosh.

Mrs. Broughton said the director, Mrs. Audrey Henderson, and the Strathcona Lodge School cast of Little Glass Houses accepted the criticism from the stage rather than in a smaller circle as is done normally at the end of every evening.

Mrs. Broughton said "They were good sports to give the audience an opportunity for a fuller adjudication." She said the acting, set, costumes and stage movement were particularly good, "but I disagreed with the interpretation of the parts."

Special mention was given to Eve Crawford who played Mrs. Orpington. "She was very alive and reacted with vigor at all times," Mrs. Broughton said.

"VERY AMUSING" The last play of the evening, Oracle Oak, was described as "very amusing if slightly talky."

The adjudicator said she felt "the direction was imaginative and the inspired acting was only spoiled by lack of variation in tempo and tone."

Toward the end the audience, which had been "sitting on its hands," seemed to let go with audible laughter, she added.

Oracle Oak was performed by the senior division of the Ladysmith Secondary School and directors were Mrs. M. Walker and Mrs. D. Boulton.

Legion Masquerade To Boost Hall Fund

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Prizes

for costumes will be awarded at the Shamrock masquerade dance, to be sponsored by the Malahat branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, March 20, in Cobble Hill Community Hall.

Plans for the fund-raising event were completed at this week's legion meeting. Music will be supplied by the Jerry Barry orchestra. Raffle ticket winners will be announced for the hand-batted rag and mahogany coffee table.

Proceeds are earmarked for the rebuilding program of the new Legion Hall, which costlapsed under snow New Year's Day.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion appointed Mrs. George Orr as delegate to the Ladies' Auxiliary convention in Victoria in May.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND Members donated $10 to the Legion Provincial scholarship fund, and it was learned that $15 had been raised at the recent auxiliary coffee party.

Catering plans were discussed for the Legion-sponsored bingo games, held in the Shawnigan Lake Community Centre three a month.

Delegates to the tenth annual session of the Order of the Amaranth now being held at the Empress Hotel were guests at a reception given by Mrs. Peakes at Government House yesterday afternoon. Pictured, from left to right, Mr. C. W. Morrish, grand associate patron; Mrs. Peakes, Mrs. Eileen Kullman, presiding grand royal matron of B.C.; Mrs. Helen Davis, Seaside, Oregon; Mrs. Pearl Hoover, Port Orchard, Washington, and Mr. Thomas Draper, grand royal patron of B.C. from Vancouver. Both Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Hoover are grand royal matrons of their respective states.

'A Rude Dance Step'

Dancer Sees Frug Sign of Loneliness

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Frug is a rude dance step which represents a "great symptom of our time—loneliness."

Agnes de Mille, dancing, Miss de Mille is the dancer turned choreographer whose ballet sequences for the great 1940's show, Oklahoma, set a whole new pattern of dance for the Broadway musical stage.

She used equally harsh words on the Watusi, the Wobba, any of the modern ballroom or discotheque dance steps in which if the partners touch each other it's a shame accident.

"The Frug won't last," said Miss de Mille. "It's uncivil, rude, a fragmented thing. Fragmented because partners don't dance to each other. The individual is on his own. Alone, alone, alone."

Miss de Mille recalled that when she was a girl, "We went to dancing school and there were cotillions. My son (Jonathan, 19) hasn't been to anything."

"I think it is a wonderful thing for a boy to be able to stand up and put his arms around a girl. Better on the dance floor than in the back seat of the car."

Consider the beauty of the waltz alongside the uninhibited frug, she said. Or look at American folk dancing. It teaches people courtesy. The men are gallant and charming, as partners are changed and a gentleman hands his lady over to another partner.

Cheese Box Holds Gifts

Miss Margaret Brown, whose marriage takes place Saturday, March 6, was guest of honor at a grocery shower party given by the Misses Valerie and Doreen Brown in their Jackson Street home.

Carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. W. H. Brown. A decorated cheese box held the many gifts.

Other guests were Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps, Mrs. A. D. MacLachlan, Mrs. D. S. MacLachlan, Mrs. A. Hartson, Mrs. R. Stevenson, Mrs. A. McLeod, Mrs. W. Bernard, Mrs. N. Estridge, Mrs. G. Brown and the Misses Joyce Wallace, Barbara Fuller, Diane McNaught, Lola Brown and Janie Andrews.

PERSONAL MENTION

By DOBOTHY WROTONOWSKI

It is often said that Trinity College School is to Canadians what Eton is to Englishmen so it isn't too surprising to find many of the "Old Boys" living right here in Victoria.

The reason I know this is because the school is marking its 100 years of existence this year and a Centennial Dinner will be held in the ballroom of the Georgia Hotel on Monday evening for British Columbia Old Boys.

Hugh L. Henderson, a governor of the school and president of the Victoria Branch, gave me a little background on TCS, one of the oldest private schools in Canada. He, Mrs. Henderson and son, R. E. L. Henderson, will be in Vancouver Monday.

TCS was founded in 1865 in the rectory of the village of Weston, Ont., by the late Rev. W. A. Johnson. Three years later it moved to the present location in Port Hope, Ont.

Old Boys are justly proud of the service record of their school. In the First Great War, 50 per cent volunteered for service of which 181 were decorated. This included two VC's, 24 DSO's and 52 MC's. In the Second World War there were 184 awards for gallantry.

One of the first and most renowned students was the late Sir William Osler and another who made a name for himself was the late Sir Harry Bernard of Victoria. Mayor R. E. Wilson also attended the school.

Mr. W. R. Osler of Saanichton, named for his great uncle, and Mrs. Osler will attend the dinner. Others crossing to the Mainland city for the event will be Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Grant whose son, Peter, is at present attending TCS. Mr. Charles Scott and his daughter, Miss Winifred Scott, headmistress of Norfolk House School, Prof. G. J. D.

Archbold, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cleland, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. G. Sutton.

Mr. John A. Wallace who left TCS in 1939 will take part in the program. Mrs. Wallace will also be at the dinner.

Col. and Mrs. R. O. Bell have so recently returned from Hawaii that Mrs. Bell will stay home this time. The Bells, who have their own apartment at Hale Napili on the island of Maui, had their second tidal wave scare this year. The tidal waves didn't materialize either time so that the Bells can look back on these events with amusement. However, they did have to evacuate their apartment, just in case. From 10:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. they stayed up in the hills with everyone else from the beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Westinghouse and their son, George, will also be at the dinner but they are going to Vancouver on Sunday to take in the Mexican Folklorico at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre that night.

They first saw the Mexican troupe perform at the Seattle World Fair in Seattle. Again when they were in Mexico last year they saw more of the folk dancing and singing. They really are terrific. Come see.

AT S. BAUD CANYON
Grand Canyon Island was just what five Victoria couples thought was a wonderful place for a holiday. It provided what they wanted, anyway.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Genge, Mr. and Mrs. George Wheaton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waring, Mr. and Mrs. J. Maurice Green and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Denny returned from the tropical isle this week.

They sunbathed on the coral sands, swam in the 80 degree sea, went bicycling around the island and watched the blue and golden fish from a glass bottomed boat. A deep-sea fishing trip netted nine trophies, including a barracuda, a tuna, and horrors, a small shark.

They went lobster diving and while the crew cooked the succulent treasures from the sea, they went swimming.

OES Chapters

Gala Day Saturday

United Chapters of Order of the Eastern Star in Victoria are staging a gigantic Gala Day Saturday at the Union Centre Building, 2739 Quadra Street. The all-day affair is being sponsored by the Queen City Chapter No. 5, OES.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and coffee, pie and doughnuts will be available throughout the day.

Special feature will be the pie and bread baking contests with members and general public invited to enter. There will be prizes in each class. Entries are to be at the Union Centre Building between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Judging will take place at 1 p.m.

Other attractions include a magician show from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and a fashion show, with clothes and millinery by New York.

It will be the 25th anniversary season for the theatre when it opens March 16 at Lincoln Centre. Miss de Mille has been associated with the company since it started.

But she's been busy also with other dance matters and with writing. She directed the dances for a dozen more Broadway hits including Brigadoon, Carousel, and Paint Your Wagon. And she has a number of television shows to her credit. Midway in her career in the dance world, she turned author, contributing to magazines, and then writing the autobiographical books, Dance to the Piper and And Promenade Home. Current-

To Show Batik Work

Elaine Hinchcliffe will exhibit batik designs March 8 to 13 in the McPherson Playhouse lobby, coinciding with the world premiere of Son of the Drunkard.

Elaine's display, part of it straight from the Decorama show in Vancouver, will give Victoria artists and designers new ideas for many articles from scarves to full-length drapes. In describing the batik process, Elaine explained that she started with white cotton cloth and painted a design in hot wax. The fabric is then placed in a dye bath and later let dry for six to eight hours. Repeated waxing and dyeing creates the multi-colored designs and crumpling the fabric between wax dyeings cracks the coating and helps give the "crackle" effect characteristic of batik. She will display six small batik panels which are framed like pictures and four large panels which will be hung in the open area with bottom ends weighed so people can walk around and between them. Along with the Decorama work, Elaine is preparing new panels especially for the McPherson Playhouse showing.

Shipping Tribunal Hears Longshoremen's Protest

Charges of Cowichan Bay contract violations were aired by the longshoremen's union against the CNR at a meeting of the highest tribunal of the B.C. shipping industry Thursday in Vancouver.

The joint industry labor relations committee, made up of representatives of both unions and management, held an emergency meeting to hear the longshoremen's complaints.

SUB-CONTRACT
The International Longshore-

men's and Warehousemen's Union says the CNR sub-contracted work which they had been guaranteed by a contract signed in 1963.

The work is the first stage of a three-stage lumber loading operation - allied marshalling, second stage is loading on the ships and the third handling when aboard.

"We have all three stages under contract," said longshoreman spokesman William Barber, from Vancouver Thursday night.

The union spokesman said he had no idea how long it will take before a decision is reached.

Among union representatives at the hearing was G. W. (Stan) Ball, president of the Victoria local of the ILW, said Mr. Barber.

"LIVE UP TO IT"
"We've got a contract. We had to live up to it and they're going to have to live up to it," added Mr. Barber.

No date has been set for a decision, but union members will be notified of progress at their next meeting. The island meeting is set for Monday.

Format Changed In Nanaimo For Little League

NANAIMO — Nanaimo's national Little League executive changed its format at a meeting last weekend.

William Durwoody vice-president, said he would stand for president as long as the club would accept and could secure three men to stand for the positions of vice-president. Each vice-president would have practically full control of a division and be fully responsible for equipment, uniforms, playing field and conduct of players in his division.

The suggestion was accepted and the following changes in the executive were made: Mr. Durwoody, president, Don McDonald, vice-president in charge of major division; Bruno Clavro, vice-president in charge of senior division; James Mills, vice-president in charge of minor and mini-minor divisions.

The remainder of officers and directors' positions will remain the same as elected January with the exception of the secretary. Mrs. Jean Seriana took over that job from Mrs. Ouida Bryan.

Alec Johnstone, Upper Vancouver Island national Little League representative, told the members that wheels are in motion for the completion of dugouts, fencing and bleachers for Robins Park this season.

Members discussed program and sponsorship solicitation and equipment and team uniforms which will be needed this year.

Second Conviction for Impairment Results in Jail, Loss of Licence

COURTENAY—Robert Everett Patterson was sentenced to 14 days in jail when he appeared before Magistrate John Ryland in police court Thursday.

Patterson pleaded guilty to impaired driving Feb. 30 in Courtenay.

He was seen to cross the Courtenay River bridge and narrowly avoid sidwiping it, cross over the white line and just miss a cement abutment at the entrance to the Dyke Road, court was told.

The accused admitted a previous conviction for the same offence.

In addition to the 14 days, Patterson was prohibited from driving for the next six months.

'Mona. Albert Tanguay ...'

'Once again, excuse us. Devotedly yours, Durocher-Rivard'

Rivard 'Clears' Guards

Dear Pen Pal ...

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard, who says he engineered his escape from Bordeaux Jail without "inside or outside" help, continued Thursday to evade a mammoth police manhunt centred on Montreal's underworld. As has been the case ever since the accused narcotics conspirator fled the north - end prison Tuesday night, police reported plenty of tips, but no hard leads.

"We've checked out every piece of information we've received without uncovering anything definite," said one officer.

As the manhunt continued turning up dead ends in Montreal, the day's main development came from Quebec City. There, to the laughter of the provincial legislature, Attorney General Claude Wagner disclosed Rivard and fellow-fugitive Andre Durocher had written Albert Tanguay, governor of Bordeaux Jail. The letter sought to "enlighten" Mr. Tanguay on circumstances surrounding the bizarre break.

The two - page letter, handwritten in French and with a graceful writing style, was dated Montreal. It arrived at Mr. Tanguay's prison office Thursday morning in an envelope postmarked Montreal, 10 p.m. EST Wednesday—some 27 hours after the fugitives completed their break.

It was written in Rivard's hand, said Mr. Wagner and was signed, in the same hand, "A. Durocher L. Rivard."

Second Senate Look

Bank Hopes Rise Again For Bennett

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett said a large bank with headquarters in Vancouver may become reality "at an earlier date than expected" as a result of the Senate's action Thursday.

He refused to say whether the provincial government would attempt to buy shares in this or any other chartered bank. Without trying to anticipate the findings of the Senate banking and commerce committee, which will take a second look at the B.C. bank bill, the premier said he expected construction of the headquarters in Vancouver to begin this year.

VICTORIA OFFICE

There would be "an important office" of the bank opened in Victoria at the same time as the headquarters, Mr. Bennett said. The premier wouldn't answer questions on whether the government intends to buy shares in the bank, if the charter is granted by Ottawa. But he reiterated that "the government has no intention at any time of directing the policies of any chartered bank."

'FIRST STEP'

"This is a first step," Mr. Bennett said when asked to comment on the Senate move to send the B.C. bill back to committee.

"I'm very pleased that the Senate as a whole has taken a constructive attitude. I do not want to anticipate what recommendations the committee will make, but I hope the B.C. bill will very shortly find its way into the Commons for consideration with the two other bank bills."

Attorney-General Bonner said the announcement by federal Finance Minister Walter Gordon that there is to be legislation barring provincial investment in chartered banks removes any known roadblock to Senate approval of the B.C. bill.

LARGEST IN HISTORY

Even without government participation, he said the proposed Bank of B.C. would probably be capitalized at $100,000,000 with reserves of $20,000,000 making it "the largest start-up bank in Canadian history."

"Public interest in this bank has exceeded our fondest expectations of a year ago," said Mr. Bonner. "A lot of people are thoroughly fed up with attempts to prevent investment in B.C."

The "most important thing" about the Senate's action Thursday, he said, is that it once more sets B.C. upon the road to creating a leading centre of Canadian finance in Vancouver.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Referring the bill back to committee will give its sponsors, and Premier Bennett, another chance to appear before the committee.

The vote was 31 to 11 to refer the bill.

Senator Jacques Flynn (PC-Quebec) said the bill should be reconsidered in the light of Finance Minister Gordon's announcement that no provincial government would be allowed to hold shares in a chartered bank, under proposed amendments to the federal Bank Act.

Senator A. J. Brooks, leader of the Conservative opposition, said it would be discriminatory to hold up this banking bill in the Senate while passing others.

Senator Gratton O'Leary (PC-Ontario) opposed the motion, suggesting the Senate first wait to see what the finance minister is going to do.

Brings Title To Canada

First Canadian to win women's world figure skating title since Barbara Ann Scott did it in 1948 is Toronto's Dutch-born Petra Burka, 18. She easily won the crown last night in Colorado Springs. See story on page 14.

SPCA Says:

Farmers Face Charges

PENTICTON (CP) — Three Grand Forks farmers will be prosecuted if they abandon their pesticide-infested animals.

Eric Berg, SPCA inspector and special constable, said here the society does not want to take such action but has no alternative.

Mr. Berg returned Thursday from an inspection trip at the ranches of Peter de Haan, Lee Hoodle and Rick deVries.

He said the ranchers are desperate and plan to abandon their ranches and the animals if help is not forthcoming.

CAN'T SELL

The ranchers were ordered by the federal Food and Drug Administration not to sell milk or meat from their cattle and pigs after officials found a high level of pesticide in the animals.

Mr. Berg said federal assistance "must come immediately" to the ranchers.

Britannia Men Accept Terms

BRITANNIA (CP) — Mine workers voted overwhelmingly in favor Thursday night of ending a seven-month strike at the Anacosta Copper Company plant here.

The company had previously announced acceptance of the terms, and miners voted 90-8 in favor of accepting the settlement, said Harvey Murphy, national vice-president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (I.M.S.W.).

Correspondent Reports:

South Vietnamese Seek Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — A National Broadcasting Company correspondent in Saigon reported Thursday night the South Vietnamese leaders are seeking a negotiated settlement with Communist forces in the north.

In a news broadcast, Robert Gorahki said:

"A top-ranking member of Premier Quat's government says the administration (South Vietnamese) is basically in accord with Gen. de Gaulle's position that the only way out is to sit down at the conference table with Communist North Vietnamese."

"The government is encouraging further air strikes against the north as a prelude to negotiations. This will place the south in a better bargaining position."

Worst in 30 Years

Mob Storms U.S. Embassy

MOSCOW (UPI) — A mob of about 2,000 Asian, African and Russian students broke through barricades and massed Russian police and soldiers Thursday and attacked the U.S. embassy with rocks, ink bottles, and slingshots.

It was the most violent demonstration seen in Moscow in 30 years.

At least five policemen were injured and scores of demonstrators were seen with blood streaming down their faces during the hand-to-hand fighting that raged in front of the embassy.

Less than an hour after police and soldiers had succeeded finally in driving off the screaming demonstrators, U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler called on Foreign Minister Gromyko to complain that the "protection afforded by Soviet authorities was grossly inadequate." But Kohler also praised the "valiant" efforts of unarmed Russian police and soldiers to fight off the howling demonstrators.

Shouting Match

Dorion Short-Circuits Hot-Tempered Lawyers

OTTAWA (CP) — Two lawyers erupted in a shouting match which stalled the Dorion inquiry briefly Thursday. A third lawyer was sternly dismissed from the witness box by Chief Justice Frederic Dorion.

Raymond Daoust, lawyer for escaped narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard, and Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservative party, had to be out-shouted by the judge before order was restored.

A few minutes later, Roland Blais, 30-year-old legal associate of Daoust, was out short by Chief Justice Dorion who ordered him out of the witness box and accused Daoust's own counsel, Leo-Rene Maranda, of making a farce of his inquiry into allegations of attempted bribery and coercion by federal ministerial aides.

HAIR IN SOUP

The Daoust - Drouin bout arose when Mr. Drouin suggested the inquiry was being asked by Daoust at a late stage to hear new evidence "like a hair in the soup."

Daoust leaped from his chair at the counsel's table, shoved aside his own lawyer, Mr. Maranda, and furiously declared he wouldn't stand for any insinuations against him.

With both men shouting at once, Chief Justice Dorion overruled their voices with an announcement.

Split Over Viet Nam Menace to Majority

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson Thursday night survived an opposition challenge on defence policy but immediately faced a revolt by his own Labor party's leftists against U.S. bombings in Viet Nam.

A Conservative and Liberal attempt to force a censure motion on defence was beaten down in the House of Commons by five votes.

The debate over, 45 Labor members signed a motion condemning directly with Wilson's reported support for American policy on Viet Nam.

The motion demanded a public declaration that the British government renounce support for U.S. policy "in view of the recent extensions of the war by the United States in North Viet Nam and of the U.S. declaration that these new hostilities are no longer by way of retaliation."

"The motion is unlikely to come to Commons debate. Its main significance is an expression of the strains inside Wilson's water-tight Commons majority."

Wilson's view, according to aides, is that the necessity for preserving the Anglo-American alliance must be paramount in his attitude toward Viet Nam policy, and that negotiations would be meaningless unless the Viet Cong called a halt to guerrilla activity.

February Losses: 4,140 Men

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnamese government forces sustained their heaviest losses of the war during February, the U.S. military assistance command reported Thursday. The total was 4,140 dead, wounded and missing.

The report added that 1,730 Communist Viet Cong troops were killed in combat during the same month. The previous high casualty toll of government troops was 4,650 last December.
